

Nearly 70 Million Jobs in Nation Set All-Time High Mark

Increase of Almost 200,000
Reported During August

WASHINGTON (AP) — People pressed confidence today that the 70-million mark will be reached before the year is over.

It was back in 1943 in the midst of World War II that Henry Wallace, a controversial figure in the Roosevelt New Deal era, predicted that employment, then 54.5 million, would jump to 60 million in a decade.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday that instead of declining by more than 250,000 in August as expected, employment climbed by nearly 200,000 to 69,762,000.

This is the greatest number ever employed in history and Labor Department officials expected the nation was bending every effort and using all available manpower to achieve maximum production to win the war.

They felt, too, there would be a big job decline when the war ended.

But Wallace's prediction came true in 1950, three years early, as production continued high to meet postwar civilian demand. By 1958 there were 65 million employed.

The August job report put out by the Labor Department contained a set of mixed trends. Besides the unexpected employment gain, it showed a far less than anticipated improvement in unemployment and a large increase in the over-all labor force.

More Jobs, More Jobless

Seymour Wolfheim, deputy assistant secretary of labor, told a news conference that basically the job picture is continuing as it has all year—employment is showing encouraging and steady growth but unemployment is failing to improve accordingly.

To the experts, this means that a great many workers displaced from jobs by machines are going to have to be retrained in new skills if they are to come off the idle rolls. They are hopeful that the new government retraining program will help.

The August report showed that unemployment declined by 86,000, instead of the seasonally expected 450,000, to 3,932,000. The civilian labor force increased by more than 100,000 to nearly 74 million.

Some of the factors that helped distort the August figures beyond what was expected included: (1) About 430,000 teen-agers quit the labor force to get ready for school or for vacations; (2) There was an unusually large influx of adults in the work force and (3) The survey caught the auto industry in the midst of changing over to 1963 models, so auto workers were technically counted as unemployed.

All this helped push the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate up to 5.3 per cent from 5.1 per cent in July. Officials indicated confidence the rate will soon again come down.

Ben Bella and Rebel Chief Try To Assure Peace

Tour Front Lines
To Stop Fighting
Between Factions

ALGIERS (AP)—Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella and the commander of the rebel guerrillas holding Algiers flew to Orleansville today to stop a new outbreak of fighting between their forces.

Ben Bella and Col. Si Hassan, commander of guerrilla Wilaya No. 4, had toured the front lines, including Orleansville—to end shooting at three points in which 100 men were reported killed or wounded Wednesday.

The new clash forced postponement of a meeting between military leaders of both sides to draw up a formal cease-fire agreement.

Several Clashes

Ben Bella's regular army troops reportedly had tried to push through guerrilla roadblocks on three highways to Algiers, violating a cease-fire provision that they would stay out of the guerrilla territory.

The heaviest fighting was reported at Aumale, 55 miles southeast of Algiers. About 40 soldiers were reported killed there.

Other clashes were reported near Orleansville and Berrouaghia. Under the cease-fire terms all troops had been ordered to hold their positions and indications

Hiroshima Pilot Says He'd Drop Another Bomb if Given Order

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — The pilot of the B29 which dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima in 1945 says he would do the job again if he were told to do so.

Brig. Gen. Paul W. Tibbets Jr., now 47, was a colonel when he piloted the B29 Enola Gay over the Japanese city.

At nearby Ft. Benning, a reporter asked Tibbets Wednesday if he would do it again.

"I certainly would," said Tibbets. "My participation in it (the bombing) was directed by military orders and I was acting under those orders at the time and would do it again if called upon to do so."

State Colleges to Offer Course on TV

MADISON (AP)—Stevens Point, Whitewater and Platteville state colleges will offer a televised college credit course on the American economy this fall.

The Board of Regents of State Colleges said Wednesday that the trio will join some 400 other institutions in presenting the 32-week course.

Participants will pay a fee of $31.50 a semester for the three credit course and watch the program on their home television sets. Students will then meet at a state college for discussion and examinations.

Fragment of Metal May be From Sputnik

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 20½ pound piece of metal, possibly part of Russia's four-ton Sputnik IV has been found and forwarded to the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory for examination, it was reported today.

Sputnik IV, launched 28 months ago, apparently broke up over Wisconsin early Wednesday, causing a rash of reports of flaming unidentified flying objects.

The chunk of metal was found on a street in Manitowoc. It was spotted first by two patrolmen, Ron Ruffoldt and Marvin Bauch, who thought it was cardboard in the pre-dawn darkness.

Expert Consulted

Ruffoldt and Bauch returned later and found the metal too hot to handle. When they heard the report that flaming objects apparently were part of Sputnik IV they went back and retrieved the chunk.

Police obtained the help of a steel expert, Kenneth Gevers of H.Y. Ten Steel Products of Chicago, who was in Manitowoc. Gevers said the metal appeared to be high temperature resistance steel, probably from the main portion of a satellite's nose cone.

Russia's Angry Note to West May Bring New Soviet Moves in Berlin

BY JOHN M. NIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials view the Soviet Union's latest note to the Western powers on Berlin as an unusually bitter propaganda blast which may foreshadow new Soviet moves in the troubled city.

The note was received in Washington and in other Western capitals late Wednesday and State Department officials are studying it. They said it is a response to earlier U.S., British and French proposals for four-power talks in Berlin on measures which might be taken to reduce tension over the Communist wall dividing the city.

The note was seen here as indicating that the Soviets are unwilling to engage in considering Berlin. The position of the West, such measures at this time and ern powers is that they will not mean authorities thought it may recognize East German authority mean that Premier Khrushchev is as a substitute for Soviet responsibility about ready to sign a separate treaty with East Germany.

Khrushchev has long threatened such a step which he claims would give the East German regime, which the Western powers do not recognize, authority over the supply routes between West Berlin and West Germany.

The Soviet Union told the Western powers that what is now needed for "normalizing the situation in West Berlin" is not consultation, but the signing of a German treaty which would "end the occupation regime in West Berlin."

Hope for Restraints

The hope among Western leaders is that if and when Khrushchev does sign a treaty with East Germany he will provide for restraints on subsequent East German actions to avoid a showdown with the Western powers over their use of the supply lines to Berlin. The position of the West, such measures at this time and ern powers is that they will not mean authorities thought it may recognize East German authority mean that Premier Khrushchev is as a substitute for Soviet responsibility about ready to sign a separate treaty with East Germany.

Spacecraft in Sun's Gravitational Pull

Mariner 2 Follows Course
Scheduled by Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The 14— a 160-million-mile journey in sun's gravitational pull has captured the Venus-bound spacecraft Mariner 2.

But there's no cause for alarm — scientists planned it that way. At a point 1.6 million miles out in space Wednesday solar gravity became strong enough to overcome the earth's weakening pull on the 447-pound spacecraft.

For the rest of its uncalculated lifetime, Mariner 2 will be a tiny satellite of the sun.

Scientific interest in it will cease next Dec. 14 when the 12-foot-tall vehicle streaks past Venus at a distance of 9,000 miles.

Its scientific instruments, designed to help determine whether life could exist on the cloudy planet, then will be turned off and Mariner 2 will become another hunk of space junk orbiting the sun.

Gravity Weakened

Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where Mariner 2 was built, calculated both the dwindling earth gravity and the increasing solar gravity in figuring its trajectory through space.

Although traveling away from earth at about 6,000 miles an hour, the spacecraft is whizzing along an orbit around the sun at ten times that speed.

In the coming weeks the pull of the sun will grow stronger and Mariner 2's speed will increase. By the time it reaches the vicinity of Venus, the spacecraft will be going more than 90,000 miles an hour along its orbit around the sun.

Falling Toward Sun

In a sense, Mariner 2 now is falling toward the sun but it will not plunge into the sun. Its speed will keep it moving in a giant egg-shaped orbit around the sun for years.

The curving trajectory will take Mariner 2, launched from Cape Canaveral Fla., Aug. 25, past the sunny side of Venus about noon Eastern Standard Time next Dec. 14.

Rebel Radio Tells of Cuban Hunger Protests

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A clandestine shortwave radio said Wednesday night that hunger protests recently erupted in Cuba's Las Villas Province.

The broadcast, from an unknown point, was the fifth such picked up in Key West. It charged the Fidel Castro regime's "commitment to the defense" of prying into private citizens' affairs to prevent internal rebellion.

The announcer said "they (committee members) will have to face the tribunals of free Cuba when Castro's Communist regime is overthrown." He added that the first punishment would be to have committee members' heads shaved.

The broadcaster said a hunger strike in Cabaiguana, Las Villas Province, resulted in the arrest of 150 persons.

Scores of Italians, tears in their eyes, pushed and pressed against the vice president, calling out phrases like "I have seven children in America," "God bless your country—my daughter lives there."

Oshkosh Man Found Insane in Murder Case

Judge Cane Commits
Francis Clayton
To Central Hospital

OSHKOSH — Francis Clayton, slayer of Marilyn Fritz on May 13, 1960, has been found innocent of murder by reason of insanity at the time the killing took place, Clayton has been declared to be legally sane as of now.

Acting Winnebago County Judge Arnold J. Cane, who handed down the ruling, ordered Clayton returned to Central State Hospital at Waupun until such time he may be discharged in "accordance with the law."

Judge Cane's findings Wednesday afternoon, after testimony by two psychiatrists, ends the almost 2½-year-old case in which Mrs. Victoria Fritz, wife of the murdered man, was convicted of first degree murder for planning the killing.

Clayton, who was 18 at the time, was found not to be capable of standing trial at the time of the hearing Oct. 13, 1960, and was committed to Central State Hospital.

7,560 Bodies Buried Under Debris in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The bodies of 7,560 earthquake victims have been buried in 31 devastated mud brick villages. Iran's Red Lion and Sun (Red Cross) reported today.

Reports from as many as 60 more stricken villages were still not completed. The staggering burial figure indicated the toll from last Saturday's quakes would go higher than the 10,000 dead estimated previously.

In the 31 villages reported on today, 26,618 survivors were reported alive, many of them injured. The number of injured still in hospitals in Tehran alone were packed with 2,500 victims.

New Sheriff Says Jail Riot Planned as 'Test'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Prisoners who rioted in the Bexar County Jail "just wanted to test me to see what I would do," says Sheriff Bill Hauck.

Hauck, appointed just last month, fired wax bullets from his arms around the tree, braced my 45 caliber pistol and his deputies other foot on a rock and held on.

That ended the 2½-hour uprising, Pearson, heard her cries and no-escape inmates complained to a sheriff's station. Deputies, firemen used a basket stretcher to carry Mrs. Long out of the canyon.

U. S. Officials Say Reds Tried Twice in 2 Weeks to Equal Mariner Launching

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has struck out in five in a prepared speech that these of six attempts to send spacecraft to Mars and Venus—and the sixth phase on military needs in space turned into a long foul, U.S. space officials report.

Twice within the past two weeks, they said, the Soviets tried to beat or match America's launching of Mariner 2 now hurtling 6,000 miles an hour toward Venus. Both Soviet attempts went haywire, added the report.

It ticked off the two space flops this way—

One effort on Aug. 25—two days before Mariner rocketed into the sky—broke up in space. Its fragments are orbiting earth. This failure was reported unofficially earlier.

Partial Success in 1961

But the U.S. space agency disclosed Wednesday night a second attempt on Sept. 1 not previously reported. The Soviets saw this one misfire, too.

The only shot that approached success was a Venus probe in 1961, said the report, but its radio blacked out before it got even close to the planet.

The chronicle of Soviet space troubles was contained in a letter to chairmen of the Senate and House Space committees from James E. Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Congress members had urged Webb to make public information on Soviet space misadventures since the Soviets only talk about their successes.

Along this line, Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., today laced into "Monday morning quarterback" whose teeth start chattering after every Russian "spectacular" in space.

Soblen Poisons Self to Avoid Return to U. S.

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Soblen poisoned himself today, minutes before he was to be deported to a United States prison aboard a jet airliner, the British Home Office announced.

Soblen was rushed at once to Hillingdon Hospital near London Airport, seriously ill and unconscious.

A Home Office statement confirmed that the 61-year-old psychiatrist took a drug of the barbiturate group minutes before he was due to board a Pan American jet airliner for New York.

The Home Office said Soblen became ill in the ambulance taking him from Brixton Prison to the airport.

Thus Soblen, who once stabbed himself in a simulated suicide attempt, again delayed attempts to send him back to a U.S. prison to

Clings to Tree in Canyon 8 Hours Before Rescue

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — A frail widow thrown from her car as it plunged off a road and 300 feet down a canyon wall clung desperately to a tree for eight hours until help arrived.

Mrs. Gertrude Ida Long, 58, of Tujunga, braved heat and bothersome insects Wednesday despite numerous lacerations and a broken rib.

Her cries for help went unheard by residents of nearby homes. Doctors said she came through her ordeal well.

"Lucky for me," she said, "I landed right near a tree. I was groggy but I knew if I didn't hold onto something I would tumble right on down to the car."

"I wrapped one leg and my arm around the tree, braced my 45 caliber pistol and his deputies other foot on a rock and held on."

That ended the 2½-hour uprising, Pearson, heard her cries and no-escape inmates complained to a sheriff's station. Deputies, firemen used a basket stretcher to carry Mrs. Long out of the canyon.

Business Can Deduct Lobbying Expense, but Private Groups Cannot

New Tax Bill Passed by House, Almost Approved by the Senate

BY ROBERT S. ROYD
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Suppose John Jones, owner of Jones Realty Co., wants the city council to rezone a choice piece of land so he can put up an apartment house.

Jones whips up a fancy brochure, hires a high-priced lawyer to make an effective pitch for his pet project before the council.

Because Jones Realty can deduct the costs from its federal income tax as a "necessary business expense," the taxpayers will pick up part of Jones' bill.

Sam Smith lives across the street from the land Jones has his eye on. Sam and his neighbors would rather see a park than an apartment.

Sam's view is shared by his Neighborhood Homeowners Association and the city-wide Build More Parks Association.

These folks want to make a counter-presentation to the council, opposing Jones' plan.

Every cent they spend must come out of their pockets. There is no tax deduction for them.

Some people don't think this is fair. But it will be the law starting Jan. 1, under a new "business lobby" rule Congress has just approved.

Section 3 of the massive tax bill allows businesses to deduct the cost of telling congressmen and state and local lawmakers their views on issues that affect them.

Individuals without business income are allowed no such deduction, under the rule already passed by the House and tentatively adopted by the Senate.

The new law also will permit businessmen to deduct the cost of dues to organizations that engage in lobbying, such as the Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers.

Labor unions or consumers' associations, which also maintain staffs of lobbyists, will get no such stimulus to increase their efforts, since they don't pay income taxes.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) and Ly. but were not confirmed until Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) call the "business lobby" section of the bill a "cynical financial bonanza" for one group of lobbyists and their employers.

They said it gives an "unwarranted tax reduction where it is least needed."

'Million Dollar Corner' Sold in New York City

NEW YORK (AP)—A tiny parcel of land—holding a three-story building surrounded by the 70-story RCA Building at 50th street and Sixth avenue—has been sold after being owned by one family for 110 years.

The 25-by-66-foot corner property was sold Wednesday for $350,000 to a group which plans to hold it as an investment.

The frontage was bought in 1852 for $1,000 by a grocer, John P. Boronowsky. It passed to his daughter and later to her son, J. Fred Maxwell, who died last May.

The family refused to sell when Rockefeller Center was built in the 1920's.

The little brick building, which houses a drug store on the ground floor, is across the corner from Radio City Music Hall.

Tourist guides long have called attention to the holdout as the "million dollar corner."

Readings From Bible at Many Public Schools

Readings from the Bible and portions from the Lord's Prayer were given in many public schools Wednesday as the nation's school children returned to their classrooms.

In New York, some communities—with later school openings—were planning to allow recitation or singing of a verse of the national anthem or "America."

The New York State Board of Education today has voted unanimously in favor of a period of silent meditation in classrooms.

This was in keeping with the suggestion by the state education commissioner, James E. Allen Jr., after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that an officially prescribed prayer was unconstitutional.

Scripture Readings

In Massachusetts, there was the usual Scripture reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer—a combination of past procedure backed by Massachusetts state law and by an advisory from the state commissioner of education.

In Maine, authorities in a number of communities said Scripture readings were held as usual in accordance with Maine law.

The law states that there shall be no denominational or sectarian content in reading, and that students shall not be required to attend but shall be free in their own forms of worship.

Among dissenting voices against the highest court's ban on New York's official state prayer was U.S. Court of Appeals Judge T. B. Grier in Columbia, S.C., who—in charging a grand jury—asked "It is just right that a few atheists and agnostics, by their lawsuits, are going to exert a control over the country."

Livestock Receipts Fall in Milwaukee

Wholesale Beef Prices Rise, NFO Action May be Reason

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Livestock receipts dropped and wholesale beef prices rose Wednesday as influence on the number of live-Milwaukee meat packers assessed stock brought to market.

The effect of the drive by the National Farmers Organization to withhold livestock and grain in an effort to raise prices, the Milwaukee Livestock Exchange reported receipts almost normal and prices were up on most classes of livestock but added, "It is still too early to evaluate the holding action."

Officials of several packing houses buying from the Milwaukee stockyards also reported lower receipts.

Expansion of Sturgeon Bay Airway Okayed

Cherryland Airport To Install Paved, Lighted Runway

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Expansion of the Sturgeon Bay airway near Cherryland Airport by action of the state board of aeronautics.

The board has approved reconstruction and improvement of the airport at a total cost of $92,000, including $46,000 in federal funds, a state contribution of $10,000, and a sponsor's share of $36,000 of the La Crosse City Plan Commission held to consider public school capital improvements.

The project will be budgeted in the 1963 construction program of the state, officials explained. The findings of the department submitted to the board emphasized the enormous tourist traffic in the county which raises population from the normal level of about 21,000 to 75,000 during the summer season, as well as the transportation demands of business and industry in the peninsula.

Limited Bus Service
The report also said there is only limited bus transportation for the peninsula's inhabitants and that during the late winter and spring the present airport is not available for use. The nearest alternative airport with paved runways is the Brown County airport near Green Bay, Wash. Island depends upon Sturgeon Bay for emergency services, including medical assistance and supplies.

Transient air traffic to Sturgeon Bay has increased steadily, according to airport investigations, with nearly a quarter of the visiting aircraft of the multi-engine type. Last year estimated aircraft movements totaled 6,500.

The major construction approved is a new north-south runway with a paved surface equipped with runway lights 3,600 feet in length. It would be difficult and costly to pave and extend the existing east-west runway, the officials said. The action also authorized additional land purchase, a 40 feet connecting taxiway, and a 200 by 270 foot paved apron.

Freeman Pledges Aid To U.N. Food Program

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman pledged $50 million Wednesday in American food and cash toward a $100-million U.N. world food program.
Freeman made the offer at a conference at which various nations also offered pledges of assistance to the world food program, being developed by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. The food program would be used to help feed the San Juan, Puerto Rico, Oct. 10-12.

Kaukauna Council Sets Discussion on Dump

Aldermen to Confer On Site Location With Town, County Chiefs

KAUKAUNA — The common council has made plans to meet with officials of Calumet County and the Town of Harrison regarding providing Kaukauna with a dumping area.
Raymond Biese has offered property to the city, but no agreement can be reached without approval of the township and county officials. A public hearing on the proposed dump site will be held at the courthouse at Chilton at 8 p.m. Sept. 13.

Other township residents will be permitted to speak at the hearing. Kaukauna has been seeking a dumping area further north of the city limits than the existing site in the Town of Buchanan.
The utility commission was authorized to install a street light on Oakridge Avenue and 20th Street after 20th Street is accepted by the council. Arnold Van-chine for use in the city clerk's derloop, First Ward alderman's office.

Need Advance Notice Of City Agency Session

Anti-Secrecy Law Cited in Dispute Involving La Crosse Plan Commission

MADISON (AP) — The La Crosse Tribune was told by the attorney general's office Wednesday that a governmental body must give reasonable notice to the press and public of its meetings. The state's anti-secrecy law also provides that the door to a meeting place must be kept open, the office added.

Provisions of the law were given in a letter to the Tribune. The newspaper cited a meeting and a sponsor's share of $36,000 of the La Crosse City Plan Commission held to consider public school capital improvements. Only commission members were notified of the meeting. It also was cited that no school administrators, school board members, news media representatives or others were notified of the meeting in advance.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Elliot N. Walstead told the Tribune that the law not only requires that the door to a meeting place be kept open but that the press and persons interested must be given reasonable notice so that they can attend.

"Even though there is no specific statutory requirement that notice of the meeting be given, the anti-secrecy law imposes a duty to make the meetings public," Walstead informed the news paper. The duty is not kept by merely keeping the doors to a meeting open, he added.

Appleton Dancing Teacher Ends Season At Delafield Camp

Vesper Chamberlin, 807 W. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton dancing teacher, has returned from Camp Magawicka, Delafield, where she taught drama, dancing and horseback riding for 10 weeks.

The summer camp is connected with St. John Military Academy at Delafield and is open to relatives of winter cadets. Miss Chamberlin directed and produced eight camper shows during the summer, including "Tom Sawyer" and the Broadway musical, "Bye Bye Birdie." She will teach ballroom dancing one day a week to the cadets at the academy this fall and winter.

No One Injured in Two-Car Collision

KAUKAUNA — Several hundred dollars damage resulted, but no one was injured in the only accident reported in Kaukauna over the Labor Day weekend.

Cars driven by Robert J. Kramer, 33, Chicago, and David P. King, 19, 624 Lincoln Ave., Kaukauna, collided at Second Street and Crooks Avenue, about 5:25 p.m. Monday.

According to police, Kramer was going east on Second Street, stopped for the arterial and started to pull out onto Crooks Avenue when King started to turn from Crooks onto Second Street and the two vehicles met near the center of the intersection.

Architect Firm Will Act as Clerk on School

The Appleton Board of Education has approved having Sauter and Seaborne, architects for the proposed northside junior high school, act as their own clerk of the works (inspect the organization details of the drive. The work to protect the city's inter-chamber plans to contact 40 firms during the time of construction).

'A Wee Bit of Green'

If we had a monthly kudos department the current winner certainly would be Appleton's First National Bank for its introduction of a small but attractively arranged plot of green grass, shrubs and flower beds in the downtown area. In planning its new drive-in at the corner of Washington and Appleton streets the bank decided to sacrifice a few parking spaces to provide the garden-like spot, including a bench for the benefit of weary shoppers.

The Project 70 committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce is studying, among other things, the possibility of softening the downtown's "concrete jungle" look by the introduction of trees, grass, shrubs and perhaps even fountains and statues. The Post-Crescent wholeheartedly supports this concept; we see no reason why a business and shopping area cannot be beautiful as well as utilitarian, attractive as well as efficient, comfortable as well as practical. We hope the Project 70 leaders will pursue these ideas actively, as their realization could mean more to the city, in the long run, than many other projects that receive civic leaders' attention.

Meanwhile we hope other property owners will take a leaf from the First National's book and, when considering remodeling or new building projects, include a "little bit o' green" in their plans.

The Fox Valley's Growth and Future

A good indicator of the solid growth of the Fox River Valley, stretching from Green Bay through the Fox Cities to Oshkosh, is contained in recent estimates of population gains in the area since the federal census in 1960. The figures were compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health. Previous experience has shown that the bureau's projections of population in the decade between U.S. census counts have been very close to correct.

Brown, Outagamie and Winnebago Counties, the three leaders in the valley down through the years, have had population gains since the 1960 census. Brown County, with an estimated gain of 3,072, not only had the largest population in 1960's census, 125,751, but also the largest percentage of increase since then, 2.9 per cent to 128,823. Outagamie County, rising from 102,296 to 104,829, rose 2.4 per cent with 2,533 more residents, and Winnebago went from 108,349 to 110,084, an increase of 1,735, or 1.5 per cent.

Although some of the total of 343,738 persons in the three counties reside in non-urban areas, the great percentage are residents of cities and villages which dot the 50-mile stretch. There is reason to believe that the growth of this area will continue in the future and that, eventually, a strip city of some depth will be a fact on the west side of the Fox River over that distance, and perhaps beyond to the south, even to Milwaukee. There is visual evidence that this is already nearing actuality from Kaukauna through Neenah and Menasha.

In a recent study by a University of Chicago expert in geophysical sciences, the point is made that before the end of the 20th Century "we may see a city belt, say 20 miles deep, stretching continuously from Milwaukee to Buffalo, N.Y." Part of this will be due to thirst for water, particularly industrial thirst. Dr. Sverre Pettersen, the scientist, predicts that the Great Lakes region will become the greatest industrial region on earth because the lakes contain about one-third of the total fresh water supply in the world and can, therefore, slake the industrial and human thirst which is rising rapidly.

Dr. Pettersen warns that development of such a city belt would have enormous health, social and political consequences. He warns that study and research are needed now to keep the region healthy and attractive. In the same way, although to a somewhat lesser extent perhaps, the Fox River Valley needs to recognize that a similar city-belt development is likely in the years ahead. A start has been made on regional planning in both Outagamie and Brown Counties with their complexes of cities, villages and populous towns. The state's recent population statistics showing gains in the Valley make it seem a necessity to anticipate future growth of urbanization and to prepare for it by basic planning along with other activities complementary to it, with all three counties coordinating their efforts.

Many of us will never see the beneficial results which such long-range planning should produce. But we owe it to future citizens, as Dr. Pettersen has warned, to prepare the way for them to have healthy and happy living because those who went before anticipated the problems, to the extent that this is possible, and then did something about them.

The Precious Wilderness

The Congress has authorized the sum of $2 million to finance the purchase of remaining private parcels of land in the canoe preserve of the Superior National Forest in northeastern Minnesota, and the fact will be cheering news for thousands of wilderness lovers of the Middle West.

There remain about 200 privately owned tracts in that beautiful wilderness preserve that is accessible to nature devotees of the populous heartland of the nation. Without their acquisition, the original concept of a genuinely wild and unspoiled recreational reservation cannot be attained.

The campaign has been a long one, extending since 1935. Total public holdings in this beautiful district will soon reach a million acres of canoe and fishing country that is unrivaled in America.

voritism for one's own that characterizes free enterprise. Many share the present American ideal of two homes—the Mongols have a house or cabin and a large felt tent which they prefer in the winter as it is easier to heat.

"What the world most needs to know about Mongolia today," he writes, "is that it is an outstanding example of the successful economic development of one country by a planned program of aid from another country." The Soviet Union began helping Mongolia more than thirty years ago, Lattimore says, but he nowhere spells out the amount of aid. Nor is there any mention of the troubles that seem to plague other communist experiments in agriculture such as the low yield per acre in Russia and the apathy of the peasants in China. Mongolia is pictured as a bright and shining land but somehow the reader gets the impression that Lattimore is desperately seeking for proof that his ideas on the socialist state were not ill-founded.

We have no doubts that Mongolia has developed industrially and has probably raised its standard of living a great deal. The same thing has happened in Russia. There is probably no widespread opposition to communism in Mongolia either as there is not in Russia.

But Lattimore does not seem to be the objective writer to present the facts or the impressions to Americans. And his statements that Shakespeare has been translated into Mongolian and that the Mongolian movies do not always show the new ways victorious, reminds us rather sadly of the efforts of some wide-eyed and eager Americans who found the Soviet experiment to be the hope of the world thirty years ago.

Madison Legionnaire Takes Evjue Apart for Attack on Post-Crescent

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Of all the hypocritical allegations ever made by Editor Evjue of the Madison Capital Times, it was his Aug. 21 attack on the Post-Crescent for its complaint against the Capital Times' trying to pin the Birch Society label on Philip Kuehn.

Evjue stated, "We do not intend to allow the Post-Crescent to dissuade us from attacking what we consider to be a danger to American traditions."

For years the Capital Times has defended chronic radicals, fanatical pacifists and Communist dupes, whose activities have aided Communist objectives. Editor Evjue has suffered for years with a phobia of hostility to the nation's military leaders. Yet where will you find a more devoted group than those who sacrifice large salaries in industry to consecrate their lives to the protection of the liberty and freedom of their fellow men?

For years Evjue has waged a smear campaign against retired officers, alleging that industry hires them so they can land defense contracts for their employers. A congressional committee investigated these insidious, unwarranted charges, and failed to uncover a single instance of influence to land defense business.

Typical of the distortions the Capital Times indulges in to smear a patriot, who has the courage to expose pro-Communist collaboration of fellow-travelers, was a July smear of me, when, as outgoing commander of American Legion Post 37, I criticized three Madison clergymen for repeated pro-Communist actions. A partial and completely distorted account completely failed to state the specific facts on which I based my charges. Instead of "attacking what we consider to be a danger to American traditions" the Capital Times defended these fellow-travelers, referring to them as "Good Americans."

For inconsistency, the Capital Times rates a blue ribbon. A few years ago Evjue asked to see a list of Wisconsin clergymen who joined Communist fronts and aided Communist aims. But when I showed him the names of these 40, he dodged publishing them, with the phony alibi that he wanted to know who the American Intelligence Agency, publishers of the list, was.

When the Navy invited distinguished Badgers to witness the mauling of the battleship

"Wisconsin," Evjue criticized this public relations action of the Navy. He stated that he himself once had been invited by the Navy to witness maneuvers, but did not say why he declined. When asked to publish his reply to the invitation, he reneged. Why? Because his declination included praise of the Navy for "this fine public relations gesture."

When Sen. Lorge called Editor Evjue the "state's top hypocrite," he hit the nail on the head. Sunday after Sunday, and Monday after Monday Evjue proclaims, "Let the people have the truth and all will be well." Yet his paper chronically smears our military leaders and those who observe pro-Communist activities, and who have the courage to risk Evjue's smears by publicly denouncing such Communist collaboration.

I criticized one Madison clergyman for (1) sponsoring the visit of the Red Dean of Canterbury and sitting on the platform with him in Madison (2) for being duped by a Communist front to co-sponsor a Chicago meeting which enveiled 1,700 other clergymen to protest the formation of NATO (3) for opposing UN efforts to block Communist aggression in Korea and (4) for joining the National Council of Churches' World Order Study Conference in Cleveland in 1958, which, over U.S. government objections, urged recognition of outlaw Red China by this country and its admission to the U.N., in the face of the fact that the UN was organized to prevent aggression, of which China has been, and currently is, guilty. Note its seizure of Tibet, North Viet Nam, sponsoring Communist aggression in Laos and in South Viet Nam, imprisonment of American clergy and announced intention to take over Formosa.

Included in these "Good Americans" were two rabbis who aided the Communist effort to free Rothenberg spy Morton Sobell, singling him out for special consideration, while showing no concern for Harry Gold, a co-defendant, but who was not a Communist.

Are these actions those of "loyal or good Americans?" Do they not deserve condemnation rather than defense? Editor Evjue criticized me for my charges in a special story seeking to belittle me because I "did not see combat." This was a blow below the belt to 75 per cent of all veterans, for that many also did not get into combat — through no fault of their own. Evjue should be the last to make such a de-based charge for he, though of military age and physically able, avoided military service in World War I. Do you assume for a moment that the Capital Times will re-print this letter?

Looking Backward

Roundup of War Activities

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, 1862.

Edgar Conklin, formerly U. S. Receiver at Menasha, has received a Captain's commission and filled his company in Fond du Lac County.

Out Appleton boys in the 6th Wisconsin have seen and smelled powder, having been in those severe battles fought last week in Virginia. From what we can learn at present, none was hurt. Although our Wisconsin Regiments there engaged suffered heavily, yet they fought well. All honor to our brave Badgers.

The following members of Capt. Jewett's Company failed to pass muster: F. W. Allen, G. W. Boon, J. S. Curtis, Orrin Peabody, Edward M. Field, George Knowles, J. R. Nickel, J. N. Owen, Asa A. Preston, Levi P. Turner and J. L. Jewell. C. M. Wheat has been transferred to Capt. George Wood's Company.

West Bend in Washington County has raised 122 men for the Sigel Regiment. This leaves only nine men to make up the full quota of that town. There will be no drafting in West Bend.

George Phelps of this city and late of Company E, 6th Wisconsin Volunteers, has, by choice of the men, been commissioned First Lieutenant of the Nazro Guards, 24th Regiment, Milwaukee.

Park B. Elliott writes that the 10th Wisconsin is still guarding the M. & C. R. R. "way down in Alabama." The Appleton boys are hearty and well. Secesh are on the opposite side of the stream of our boys, but by mutual agreement there is no shooting among pickets.

Dr. S. L. Fuller, of this city, has been commissioned assistant surgeon of the 21st Wisconsin Regiment. He has made a host of friends during his stay in the community by his professional skill and gentlemanly bearing and he will bear with him on the tented field the best wishes of our people.

Small Turnout Defeats Purpose of Primary

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The fact that the state is confronted with the most interesting and significant Republican gubernatorial nomination contest in a decade and a half doubtless will bring out a higher vote in the primary election next week than has been registered in some years.

But even if the vote turnout aggregates 600,000, which would be comparatively high, or 700,000, which would be spectacular, the mass of the absentees must again force some concern among thoughtful citizens about the limitations of the primary in terms of its public acceptance.

There are well over 2,000,000 citizens of Wisconsin eligible to vote. In a general election involving a presidential choice as well as state and local selections, the vote typically reaches well over 1,200,000.

If some 600,000 men and women go to the polls next Tuesday, it will mean that scarcely half of the people have cared enough about the business to express themselves.

WHY?

This is not the usual matter of electoral apathy that gloomy critics talk about after the general elections, although that is a worrisome subject, too.

The baffling puzzle is: Why do about half of the eligible electors who usually vote in the general election ignore the equally important right to nominate in the first instance?

The record is clear, it seems, that the ideal of popular nominations that inspired the Wisconsin pioneering direct primary act more than half a century ago has not yet been fully justified. There remains apparently some doubt about the process, a confusion and an uncertainty that leads many ordinarily responsive persons to choose in November from a list of nominees chosen by others in September.

The indifference of the average man to the popular nomination law presents a whole series of perils, from the viewpoint of those who are concerned with the vigor and integrity of representative government.

Assuming an equal distribution of the primary vote between the parties, for example, it is possible for a man to win the Republican nomination for governor next Tuesday with as few as 100,000 votes — out of up to 1,000,000 theoretical Republican votes in this state. Is there any certainty, under such circumstances, that he is the true choice of the supporters of that party? Moreover, since the primary is an "open" one, in which partisans can cross over in the direction that they please, a successful nominee might very well win with a minority of the adherents of his own nominal party cause, abetted by the votes of thousands of others who are normally attached to the opposition.

It is not a great deal different, in principle, from the free and easy earlier rules under which a Democrat could file in both party columns, and vice versa, and then create the absurd situation of winning on the opposition party ticket and becoming its representative in the final election. That irresponsible system was reformed long ago, but the fluidity on the electoral level remains and there is evidently no disposition to change it.

PROBLEM

The basic problem and danger, however, is in the repeated revelation that half or more of the voters of Wisconsin don't care enough about the primary election to take part in it. At the least, this is a strange repudiation, in view of the steady nominal advances in average educational attainment, of the brave new system that the reformers thought they had achieved around the turn of the century when they removed the nomination power from the party politicians and gave it to "the people."

She's Never Too Old to Fly Planes

From The Kansas City Times

To fly the Atlantic alone in a small aircraft no longer is the impossible adventure it once was. Still, it is a major aviation accomplishment, particularly when a 70-year-old woman is the pilot. But Mrs. Marion Hart made her trip in almost routine fashion.

Max Conrad, the veteran pilot, has crossed the big ocean many times. So have others in the business of ferrying aircraft. But the flight rarely is made as a pleasure jaunt. So Mrs. Hart deserves congratulations on her flight to Shannon. The days of Lindbergh, Corrigan and Post may belong to the past. But even modern aviation can offer adventure to the daring.

Lattimore's Never-Never Land

Some months ago there were speculations as to why Owen Lattimore had turned up in Mongolia about the time it was admitted to the United Nations. Whether or not he had any influence on that situation, and it seems doubtful, he has now written a long article for the Atlantic as part of his work on a grant from the Werner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research and from the American Philosophical Society.

We are somewhat more wary of unproved soft-on-communism charges in recent months since we've seen a few examples of unfounded charges used to explain practically every difference of opinion. But Lattimore still wears his rosy-tinted glasses and writes of the bright side of the communist experiment as he sees it in Mongolia.

The labor force for the growing number of factories is recruited, he says, not from the downtrodden starving children living in hovels as the capitalists did in the Western Industrial Revolution, but among young men and women who have finished their ten years of formal schooling. This tends to make an elite of the working class, he says hopefully and perhaps even a little wistfully, and does away with "that hatred of the machine which elsewhere accompanied the industrial revolution." Mongolia is short of population so welcomes machines and the more efficient the better.

Lattimore's article finds that the peasants who work collective farms or herds or for the state-owned rural establishments are content and happy. He claims that they are permitted to own quite a few animals themselves but they are taken care of in the communal herd with none of that favoritism for one's own that characterizes free enterprise. Many share the present American ideal of two homes—the Mongols have a house or cabin and a large felt tent which they prefer in the winter as it is easier to heat.

"What the world most needs to know about Mongolia today," he writes, "is that it is an outstanding example of the successful economic development of one country by a planned program of aid from another country." The Soviet Union began helping Mongolia more than thirty years ago, Lattimore says, but he nowhere spells out the amount of aid. Nor is there any mention of the troubles that seem to plague other communist experiments in agriculture such as the low yield per acre in Russia and the apathy of the peasants in China. Mongolia is pictured as a bright and shining land but somehow the reader gets the impression that Lattimore is desperately seeking for proof that his ideas on the socialist state were not ill-founded.

We have no doubts that Mongolia has developed industrially and has probably raised its standard of living a great deal. The same thing has happened in Russia. There is probably no widespread opposition to communism in Mongolia either as there is not in Russia.

But Lattimore does not seem to be the objective writer to present the facts or the impressions to Americans. And his statements that Shakespeare has been translated into Mongolian and that the Mongolian movies do not always show the new ways victorious, reminds us rather sadly of the efforts of some wide-eyed and eager Americans who found the Soviet experiment to be the hope of the world thirty years ago.

Bowler Hats Protection Vs. Accident

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer

Dr. Francis Camps, a British pathologist, advises all British men to wear bowler hats as a safety measure. He maintains that the hard brim and crown of a bowler would lessen injuries in the event the wearer should be knocked to the pavement by a car.

We, who have never been able to keep a hat in shape for more than 10 minutes — an almost universal state in this profession — would welcome the bowler, not only as a safety measure, but a very definite improvement in our appear-

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

Vice President Johnson's good will trip is so extended, there's some suspicion the White House may be trying to keep him out of the country until after the '64 Democratic convention.

Republicans say the fall election outlook is good. With employment holding up, people won't have leisure time to question the Republican candidates.

The White House lawn is plowed up. It's rumored they're going to answer charges of a "no-win" foreign policy by planting a victory garden.

Here's a verse that's not so funny: Too much month at the end of money.

Jacqueline and Caroline Kennedy came home from Italy in the manner of the Bobsey twins, "tired but happy, and ready to go again some other day."

Q—Is this administration anti-business? A—Certainly, judging by Labor Day. The government conducted practically no business for a week.

Kiwanis Club at Kimberly Sets Charter Dinner

Immediate Past District Governor To Address New Unit

KIMBERLY — A charter night program for the Kimberly Kiwanis Club will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday at Kimberly High School.

Opening the program will be a dinner followed by talks, presentation of the charter and entertainment. Serving as toastmaster will be Russell F. Williams, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, and giving the invocation will be the Rev. Thomas Mortell, assistant pastor at Holy Name of Jesus Church.

Williams will introduce guests and Alvin Fulcer, village president will give the official welcome. Charles E. Derr, district new club chairman, will introduce Ralph Balliet, immediate past district governor, who will give the main address.

Vocal selections will be offered by the Kimarks under the direction of Mrs. Vanden Elsen. Presentation of the charter will be handled by William Winus, president of the Little Chute club, sponsoring unit. Kenneth Bobber, president of the Kimberly group will accept the charter.

Gifts Presented

Making gift presentations will be Robert Lacey, past president of the Little Chute unit, and accepting the gifts will be Darrell Larson, vice president of the Kimberly Club. Closing remarks will be made by Russell F. Williams.

Charter night committee members from Kimberly include Phil Frassetto, general chairman; Ray Versteegen, publicity; Jerry Thiel, house; Paul Schulz, program; and Darrell Larson, attendance. In charge of these committees for the sponsoring club are in order: Robert Lacey, George Vandeloop, Fabian Ourada, William Winus and Ray Chartier.

Initial officers of the Kimberly unit besides Bobber and Larson are Lester Grones, secretary and Richard Lamers, treasurer. Directors are Ray Hamann, Dale R. Dean, Paul Schulz, Fred Driessen, Robert Remmel, Dr. Philip Bourassa and Ray Versteegen.

Candidates File Reports On Expenses

MADISON (AP) — A preliminary election financial report filed with the secretary of state's office shows the main committee supporting Wilbur Reuk for governor received contributions of $27,339, spent $35,412 and owes $964.

Reuk, Sun Prairie seeks the Republican nomination for governor. His personal statement showed no receipts and expenses of $3,571.

Philip G. Kuehn of Whitefish Bay, the Republican endorsed candidate for governor, reported he had no receipts between May 27 and Aug. 31 and had expenditures of $773. As the endorsed candidate he receives financial support from the party organization.

The compilation of reports for campaigning prior to the Sept. 11 primary are incomplete. Other filings include:

Citizens for Reuk Club of Milwaukee: contributions of $295 and expenditures of $116.

Young Republicans for Kuehn: no receipts and expenditures of $30.

Fond du Lac Kuehn for Governor Committee: $300 in receipts and $106 in expenses.

Central Labor Council of Wisconsin Rapids COPE for Nelson: no receipts and $30 in expenses.

Jack Olson for Lieutenant Governor Committee: $1,147 and $931.

Olson personal: $1,340 and $267.

Faculty to Plan Ways to Utilize Area's Resources

Teachers at St. Mary's Catholic School, Appleton, will meet Friday with Sister M. Anacleto, principal, to plan ways in which community resources of the Fox River Valley can be utilized in classwork.

As part of their pre-school planning program, faculty members took tours of churches, art galleries, museums, bird sanctuaries, parks, paper and woolen mills, historical sites and other places in the community offering educational and cultural opportunities.

New teachers at St. Mary's this year are Sister M. Evangelia, eighth grade; Sister M. Borgia, sixth grade; Sister M. Marciana and Sister Raymond Mary, fourth grade; Miss Dorothy Calnin, third grade; and Sister Mary Claudian, first grade.

Lawrence Says Kennedy Fails In Upholding Old Doctrine

No Action Taken Against Russian Foothold in Cuba

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Has President Kennedy really disengaged, if not scrapped altogether, the Monroe Doctrine—the historic policy of the United States for the protection of the Western Hemisphere against European aggression? The President's latest statement, upon being examined carefully, reiterates deliberately what he said, in effect, at a news conference on August 29—that he will not uphold the doctrine unless there's an actual military invasion of a country in this hemisphere. He will not take action in the face of European intervention in the affairs of a Latin American country. He will accept a military build-up by the Soviet Union inside Cuba, for instance, as "defensive" in that country. He will wait for actual offensive preparations or operations before taking action. He will, in other words, take "the first blow." He will not intervene to save the people of Cuba or of any other Latin American country from domination by a European power.

This is a distinct departure from the words of the Monroe Doctrine itself and from the action taken by several presidents of the United States in past history.

Famous Message

The Monroe Doctrine says nothing about avoiding action just because European problems may loom large at the time. When Russia was attempting to get a foothold in the northwestern part of this country, President James Monroe expressed in his famous message to Congress on December 2, 1823, the American policy as follows:

"We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those (European) powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

Political Control

Plainly, the Soviet Union has political control of Cuba today. The whole world has seen how it has actually begun to impose its system on Cuba, which not only is a part of this hemisphere but is only 90 miles away from the United States. This makes it even more relevant a situation that is "dangerous to our peace and safety."

Thus, the Soviet Union has given a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States. The Soviet Union has officially acknowledged that it has sent armament to Cuba and the Washington government recognizes officially that this armament can be used to ward off any military action by planes or naval vessels of the United States. The Soviets can also make Cuba a base of supply for submarines.

The fact is, therefore, that the Soviet Union has armed Cuba to prevent the United States from landing troops or otherwise assuring that the lives and properties of its citizens and of other foreign nationals be protected.

Soviet Defiance

The Soviet Union has defied the Monroe Doctrine and has taken steps to prevent its enforcement insofar as Cuba is concerned by sending allegedly "defensive" armament to Cuba.

President Kennedy, of course, does not know at what moment the missile pads being erected for "defensive" purposes may be used for "offensive" purposes. The officially confirmed data show that Soviet military technicians—at least 3,500 men—have actually been landed in Cuba.

Under the circumstances the United States can if it wishes ignore the Soviet military plans and land troops now before Cuban missile strength is built up or it can wait—as it did in Berlin when "the wall" was erected—to deal with a more serious problem that can develop later.

If the United States government does not wish at this time to land forces in Cuba to assert the principles of the Monroe Doctrine, then the question arises as to what steps this country could take to manifest its feeling concerning the Soviet Union's "interposition" in this hemisphere.

The United States can announce that it will sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union unless all Soviet military technicians are withdrawn at once from Cuba. This action would mean the expulsion from the United States of all Soviet diplomatic and consular officials and the return of all U. S. officials from the Soviet Union. It could mean also the imposition of an economic blockade by the move. It's the only way to get rid of United States not only against Communist infiltration in the Cuba but against the Soviet Un- Western Hemisphere without All Latin-American states bloodshed would be urged to join in the same

Desegregated Dixie Schools Are Peaceful

3 Southern States
Maintain Separate
Classes for Whites

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second year in a row, desegregated Southern schools started the fall term peacefully. Hamilton County calmly faced the city's first public school integration today.

gether in parochial schools at New Orleans, La., and Atlanta, Ga. Public school desegregation spread in Arkansas, Maryland, Florida, Tennessee and Virginia. Efforts to lower racial barriers failed Tuesday at Baton Rouge, La., Huntsville and Gadsden, Ala., Albany, Ga., and at the Carrollton schools near Dallas, Tex. Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina remained the only states with no racial integration at the public school level. Heartened by the lack of major incidents in the South, Chattanooga, Tenn., and surrounding Hamilton County calmly faced the city's first public school integration today. City and county police were or-

Thursday, Sept. 6, 1962 Appletan Post-Crescent A9 dered out in force at schools where 51 Negro youngsters registered to attend classes with white children. The metropolitan area on the north Georgia border was the last of Tennessee's four major cities to desegregate. A total of 23 school systems in Tennessee now have integration programs under way. Calmness, Dignity The police superintendent of New Orleans, Joseph I. Giarrusso, said that city's citizens "squarely faced an expanded school desegregation Tuesday marked by noisy demonstrations with calmness, dignity and a complete regard for law enforcement." About 150 Negroes desegregated some 30 schools of the Catholic archdiocese, embracing New Orleans and 10 neighboring parishes. An estimated 9,000 Negroes are among the 48,000 pupils in the system. A few pickets appeared at three of the parochial schools but there were no arrests and no major disturbances. Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., one of three excommunicated segregationists, carried a sign urging Archbishop John P. Cody to resign. The first New Orleans public school desegregation in 1960 was marked by noisy demonstrations and a boycott by white persons. The city begins its third year of public school integration Thursday.

Cuba Issue Enters Political Campaign

Republicans Say Criticism Based On 'Deep Disturbance' of Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political party criticism of the administration over the Soviet military buildup in Cuba seemed certain against the landing of Communist today to boil over into the congressional election campaign.

Republican leaders offered the customary no-politics disclaimers.

Soblen Poisons Self to Avoid Return to U. S.

serve a life sentence for passing wartime secrets to the Soviet Union.

According to one account Soblen took barbiturates which he had hidden on him. This occurred while the ambulance taking him to the plane was at the airport gate.

At the airport he was transferred to another ambulance and rushed to the same hospital he was first taken after his landing in Britain July 1 with self-inflicted stab wounds in his wrist and his abdomen.

A late hospital bulletin said: "Barbiturates have been found in his blood in a concentration which indicates an overdose."

The Home Office will seek to determine how Soblen—in the light of his past record—was able to get his hands on the drugs he took. Soblen has some sympathizers in Britain. One of these might have slipped him drugs but the opportunities for doing so would have been limited.

A considerable amount of medicine probably has been prescribed for Soblen since July 1. He may have been able to build up a stock of his own.

Soblen is suffering from leukemia—cancer of the blood—and claims he does not have long to live. British prison officials said earlier they did not believe Soblen's condition was as serious as he and his attorneys claimed.

A British police surgeon, Dr. Donald Joseph Curran, had been assigned to accompany the fugitive spy to New York.

The Home Office informed Pan American that Soblen would not be leaving for New York today. The airline said the fugitive had not been booked for a later flight.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told a news conference Wednesday that nobody in his right mind "would exploit an incipient war—a development he indicated could come if any evidence turns up that Castro is being armed other than defensively."

People Disturbed

But, Dirksen added significantly: "We Republicans are not dragging Cuba into the campaign but the people are. They are deeply disturbed by the proximity of this threat to our security."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had said earlier he hopes the Republicans won't pull the Cuban situation into the fall campaign.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said in an interview he has no doubt that the explosive Cuban situation will be handled about in electioneering.

Humphrey said the administration does not believe that any aid the Communist bloc gives Castro will make Cuba a threat to U.S. security.

Naval Power

"An American naval task force can mount more firepower and more punch than all of the missiles, rockets and guns that the Soviets can pour into Cuba," he said. "They couldn't even match the striking power of one aircraft carrier."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, had told a White House briefing conference that it would be no trouble to knock out Cuban missile sites, if it ever came to that.

Sparkman said he doesn't agree with those who have been demanding precipitate action by the United States.

"It's easy to say that we ought to go in there and bust them," he said. "But there are other considerations to take into account."

Dirksen made it plain he agrees. He said Berlin might be the first target of retaliation if the United States should move against Cuba.

The Republican leader said he has to accept the administration's explanation that the build-up in Cuba is entirely defensive at this point.

The Soviet Agency Novosti says this photo, released Wednesday, shows Cosmonaut Maj. Andrian Nikoyayev, left, sitting on the ground after parachuting from spaceship Vostok III Aug. 15. His chin is bearded after nearly four full days in orbit. The landing took place in the hill and desert country south of Karaganda, about 1,500 miles southeast of Moscow. The man at right isn't identified. (AP Wirephoto)

Clayton Freed In Oshkosh Murder Case

Schubert, Central State superintendent, and Dr. John Petersik have ruled that Clayton was not able to stand trial.

Both psychiatrists testified Wednesday that in their opinion Clayton had schizophrenic reactions at the time of the killing — he lost contact with reality — and that he did not know right from wrong. Dr. Petersik said in his opinion Clayton was mentally ill from a medical standpoint and insane from a legal standpoint.

Clayton will be confined to Central State until such time as it is deemed there is no possibility of his suffering a recurrence of his mental condition at the time of the killing. Court approval would be needed before he could be freed.

The entire hearing, including determining Clayton was sane to stand trial, the trial and the findings by Judge Cane, took a little less than 30 minutes.

Sanity Only Issue

Both the defense and the state agreed to a stipulation of facts in the case and the only ruling to be made at the trial was whether Clayton was insane at the time the crime was committed.

Fritz, who was 37 at the time, was shot through the head by Clayton with a .22 caliber rifle as the former lay sleeping in his house at 1326 N. Main St., Oshkosh.

The shooting was the climax to a bizarre series of events involving Clayton and Mrs. Fritz who was 12 years his senior and the mother of five children.

The product of a broken home, Clayton met Mrs. Fritz April 7, 1960, the same day he was released from a second commitment at Winnebago State Hospital.

Between April 7 and 23, he baby-sat for Mrs. Fritz several times and became involved with her. During this time she proposed they do away with her husband. At one time, a knife was purchased for that purpose.

Had in Closet

On April 23, Clayton went to live on a farm in Waupaca County owned by a Mr. and Mrs. Milton Miller. Mrs. Fritz, through letters, telephone calls, personal visits and a faked pregnancy claim, got Clayton to move back to Oshkosh.

He moved into the Fritz home without the knowledge of Marilyn Fritz and stayed in a closet whenever Fritz was there. Mrs. Fritz purchased ammunition for the rifle which was owned by her husband. Clayton hid the rifle after the shooting.

Clayton was brought to Oshkosh Wednesday morning for the hearing and was then immediately returned to Central State.

Kuehn Urges Steps to Reduce Highway Deaths

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philip Kuehn, the Republican endorsed candidate for governor, said Wednesday night that Wisconsin should use every method and device at its command to reduce the loss of life in highway accidents.

In a statement released in Milwaukee, Kuehn urged special enforcement, charged that Kuehn for "more effectively remove the drinking driver from the highway."

He added, "The best statistics available force us to conclude that nearly half of the highway deaths are caused directly or indirectly by the influence of alcohol on drivers."

Wilbur Reuk, Kuehn's opponent in next week's primary, declared that Kuehn "is deliberately playing down the primary election to keep people from the polls."

Reuk, who does not have party endorsement, charged that Kuehn what superior to that of their lay critics," said Miller.

With an eye toward keeping space from becoming a battleground, the Kennedy administration has announced that the United States has "no program to place any weapons of mass destruction in orbit."

No Arms Race in Space

This statement — reportedly written by White House staff members — was made Wednesday night by the deputy secretary of defense, Roswell L. Gilpatric.

"An arms race in space will not contribute to our security," Gilpatric said in a South Bend, Ind., speech.

"I can think of no greater stimulus for a Soviet thermonuclear arms effort in space than a United States commitment to such a program," he said. "This we will not do."

He declared there is no doubt that either the United States or the Soviet Union could send hydrogen weapons into orbit "but such an action is just not a rational military strategy for either side in the foreseeable future."

In his letter to the congressional committees, Webb said "the Soviet Union has pursued a vigorous but unsuccessful program to send instrumented space probes to the planets. "Thus far two attempts have been made to send spacecraft to Mars and four to Venus, of these six attempts, only one probe was successfully launched on an interplanetary path, the Venus probe of February 12, 1961.

"However, it was only a qualified success because its radio transmission failed after several days, long before it reached Venus. None of the five remaining attempts achieved a successful trajectory because of rocket vehicle malfunctions."

Webb said that in each of the regular series, a parking orbit technique was used. By this, the first three stages try to put a payload into a low orbit around the earth. From this parking orbit the fourth or ejection stage shoots the instrument load toward a planet.

Parking Orbit Difficulty

Had the launching been successful in any of the six Soviet attempts, Webb said, the probe would have arrived at Mars or Venus with too great a velocity to have orbited either planet.

The United States has also tried the parking orbit in a series of Ranger shots but has run into trouble each time. Webb said that if the Soviet country's first National Assembly shot on Aug. 25 had been successful, it would have arrived at Venus days and a full-fledged government formed soon afterward.

Webb said that on Oct. 10 and Oct. 14, 1960, the Soviet Union tried unsuccessfully to send party list of 196 constituent as probes to Mars. The other Venus probe failure was Feb. 14, 1961, he said.

were that the rebel guerrillas acted defensively after the regulars advanced on their roadblocks.

Col. Houari Boumediene, the regular army commander, was described as displeased with the cease-fire arranged Tuesday night because it denied his troops a victorious entry into the capital.

Conference Arranged

Ben Bella's political bureau concluded the cease-fire with commanders of the rebel guerrilla Wilayas (zones) 3 and 4. Col. Si Hassan, Wilaya 4 commander, accompanied Ben Bella on a helicopter trip to halt Wednesday's fighting.

Leaders of the feuding factions were gathering in Algiers to arrange a more permanent peace settlement. Sources close to the political bureau said election of the country's first National Assembly could be held within 10 days and a full-fledged government formed soon afterward.

Only minor changes were made in the one-party list of 196 constituent assemblage candidates previously pre-announced by the political bureau and the commanders of the six guerrilla zones.

The principal, Miss Mary Valeska, took him in tow.

"Why are you crying, dear—don't you like school?" she asked. "I like it but I'm afraid," he sobbed. "I don't know how to read or write or anything."

troops guarding the Soviet war memorial in the British sector of the city.

The tone is in line, however, with the fact that Communist MIG fighters have been increasing their operations in the Western air corridors to Berlin. These aerial activities have produced a round of allied protests against threatened interference with Western airline operation.

Authorities here said it is hazardous at the moment to make any firm prediction on what the right to send troops on tour in next Soviet move may be beyond East Berlin as the Soviets have saying that the situation appears to send military parties into the likely to grow more critical in Western part of the city.

One speculation is that the Soviets may attempt to reduce or eliminate Western travel through the wall into East Berlin with the claim that Western powers have no responsibilities there while at the same time insisting on the Soviet right to have access to West Berlin.

The Soviets have long treated the two parts of the divided city as having different status.

Any such move could precipitate serious trouble as the Western powers insist they have as much right to send troops on tour in next Soviet move may be beyond East Berlin as the Soviets have saying that the situation appears to send military parties into the likely to grow more critical in Western part of the city.

Golf 'World Series' Set This Weekend

Palmer, Player and Nicklaus Vie for $50,000 First Prize

BY FRITZ HOWELL

AKRON, Ohio, (AP)—Golfdom's top cash to stay ahead. Player day for two practice rounds is fifth with $44,338, Nicklaus preceding the Saturday-Sunday third with $53,518. A Palmer conquest would send the Latrobe, Pa., better into an unsurmountable lead with a $130,000 payoff for the year. If Player wins, and Palmer finishes second, the Pennsylvania would retain a PGA champion Gary Player and National Open king Jack Nicklaus in the 36-hole medal play chase. The winner gets $50,000, the second-placer $15,000 and the runner-up $10,000.

Truck Driver Sets Motorcycle Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, (AP)—A 38-year-old truck driver from Garden Grove, Calif., set a world land speed record for motorcycles Wednesday.

Bill Johnson was timed at 222.52 miles per hour for the mile and 224.57 for the kilometer. He was driving a 650 cubic centimeter British-made Triumph cycle.

The old record was 211 m.p.h. set in 1956 by a German-made NSU cycle.

Johnson set his mark at the International Motorcycle Federation trials being held on the salt flats of western Utah.

Jack Dempsey Resting Comfortably After Surgery for Back Injury

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, was resting comfortably Wednesday at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital after surgery for an old back injury.

The attending physician, Dr. Frank Theis, said the injury dates back to the Luis Firpo fight held at the Polo Grounds in New York in 1922.

The huge Firpo knocked Dempsey through the ropes and out of the ring in the first round of their fight, but Dempsey clambered back into the ring and knocked the Argentine in the second round.

Palmer leads the pack at present with $80,198, but must take the top cash to stay ahead. Player day for two practice rounds is fifth with $44,338, Nicklaus preceding the Saturday-Sunday third with $53,518. The gallery will be limited to 8,000 per day for the two-day scrap from which the winner will emerge as the "world champion golfer."

The unique affair, set up as a television extravaganza, promises plenty for the stay-at-home viewers. The NBC-TV network will telecast the final six holes in color each day.

The telecast is scheduled from 4:30 to 6 p.m. each day. Two color mobile units, nine color TV cameras with special telescopic lenses, and a crew of 50—including commentators, cameramen, technicians and production men—will beam the closing-holes play to the viewers.

Eight steel towers, from 15 to 35 feet high, have been erected at vantage spots on the final six holes—all camera sites. The 13th Vic Wertz, Al Kaline, Steve Boras will be covered by a camera and Rocky Colavito socked home on the platform of a truck, then ers, giving Detroit a club record of 184 for the season. Bunning fairway spots the rest of the way, pitched an eight-hitter and Aguirre augmenting shots from the tower re a five-hitter as each wound up with a 4-0 mark against the Orioles.

ninth. But Minnesota pulled it out in the 11th on Jim Lemon's pinch single, a walk and the double by Power. Harmon Killebrew hit his 37th homer. Earl Battey also connected for the Twins, and John Kennedy pinch homered for Washington in his first big major league at bat.

The rookie infielder, who joined the Senators only Wednesday after being called up from Raleigh of the Carolinas League, is the second player ever to hit a pinch homer in his first American League appearance. Ace Parker did it first for Philadelphia in 1937.

Ray Herbert threw a five-hitter for the White Sox against Cleveland. Camilo Carreon put Chicago ahead 2-0 in the second when he scored all the way from second on a wild pitch by loser Jim Grant.

The Red Sox rapped out 16 hits against Kansas City pitching, nine of them in a seven-run third inning. Pete Runnels and Lu Clinton had three hits each for Boston, and Frank Malzone homered.

traded to Pittsburgh; end Lee Folkins, dealt to Dallas; safetyman Em Tunnell, retired, and 43-year-old place-kicking specialist Ben Agajanian, who was obtained when Hornung was called to active duty by the Army in mid-season last fall.

With Starr at the signal-calling controls, the Packers again will feature the most powerful ground game in football. Hornung and fullback Jim Taylor, who scored 16 touchdowns and gained 1,307 yards as a rushing workhorse, will carry most of the load with Boyd Dowler, a pass-catching wizard, operating as the flanker.

Opening up holes and knocking over defenders in the same front line which helped the Packers pile up 428 points in 1961, Jim Ringo is at center, Jerry Kramer and Fuzzy Thurston at the guards, Forrest Gregg and Bob Skoronski at tackles and Max McGee and Ron Kramer at ends. Jerry Kramer is fully recovered from a severe ankle injury, which sidelined him mid-way through last season, and Gregg has been moved back to tackle with Norm Masters going into reserve.

Veterans Willie Davis, Henry Jordan, Dave Hanner and Bill Quinlan man the front line on defense, bolstered by the return of Ray Nitschke to full-time duty. Nitschke, Hornung and Dowler missed several games after being called up by the Army.

Five rookies have survived so far. They include fullback Earl Gros of Louisiana State and offensive guard Ed Blaine of Missouri, the Packers' first and second draft choices; ends Gary Barnes of Clemson, and Oscar Donahue of San Jose State, and tackle, Ron Gassert of Virginia.

Irish Have 10 Returning Starters For Tonight's Tilt

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE (Final 1961 Standings)

Freedom and Denmark, co-champions of the Little Nine Conference last season, will kick off the 1962 campaign tonight when they tangle in a big game at Denmark.

Other conference schools, including new member Hilbert, open the season Friday.

Freedom, which figures to be another powerhouse with 10 of 11 starters back from last year's championship club, has 42 boys out for the team, the largest turnout in history for Coach John Van Egeren, now in his third year.

4 New Coaches

Four new coaches will be in the league this season. Hilbert will have John Stack as head mentor and others include Doug Davidson, Wrightstown; Dick Johnson, Shiocton and Bob Newhouse, Hortonville.

Denmark was hit hard by graduation and lost 14 lettermen from the 1961 team. The Danes are rebuilding with six monogram winners.

Freedom lost only quarterback Jerry Stadler through graduation. Sophomore Glenn Bowers and senior Vance Garvey have been calling the signals in early drills.

Here is a rundown on teams and returning lettermen:

The Irish will have one non-conference game. They will meet Fox Valley Lutheran on Oct. 12 or 13 in a night game.

Denmark: The six returning lettermen for the Danes and Coach Jerry Leitman, in his third season, are Jim Romberger and Ken Pieschek, ends; Vern Romsos, guard; Randy Levenhagen, center; Leon Rassmussen, quarterback and Ricky Thompson, fullback.

Denmark was unbeaten, posting a 5-0 record in conference play last season.

Shiocton: Coach Johnson has about 30 candidates trying for starting berths with seven lettermen back from last season's squad that was winless in seven games.

Monogram winners back are Dean Marks, quarterback; Gary Zuleger and Gene Conrad, halfbacks; Carl Kennedy, center and Terry Pierre and Vic Voight, guards.

The Chiefs are looking for a non-conference game either home or away on Oct. 4 or 5.

Hortonville: The Polar Bears have seven lettermen back to form the nucleus for this season's team. They include Bill Becker, center; Leroy Fischer and John Tetzlaff, tackles; Ralph Peterson Cloninger shut out St. Louis 1-0 on five hits and Houston defeated Pittsburgh 5-3. New York and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

The Giants scored in the third against Dodgers' starter Johnny Podres (12-11) on Harvey Kuen's single, a sacrifice and a Mays double. Two more came across in the fifth when Kuen and Jose Pagan singled, Mays doubled and Jim Davidson singled. That was the ball game. Marichal (18-10) allowed only four hits and Bohn permitted only two over the final three innings.

The Reds won the opener in the 10th when Gordie Coleman hit his 27th homer, with a man aboard, off Dave Gerard (2-3). In the highcap, the Reds blasted Paul Toth (1-1) and three successors for 13 hits, with Coleman collecting three Ernie Banks hit home run No. 32 for the Cubs in the opener while rookie second baseman Ken Hubbs bettered Bobby Doerr's record of 414 consecutive errorless chances. Hubbs extended his string to 418 in 78 games before committing an error in the second game.

Two former Pirates, Jim Pendleton and pitcher Jim Umbricht, each singled in a Colt run in the seventh inning, snapping a 3-1 tie and tagging Vern Law (10-7) with the defeat. Umbricht (1-0) pitched one-hit ball in 4-1-3 innings of relief but ran into trouble in the ninth and needed help from Don McMahon.

Redskins Obtain Tackle Ed Khayat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins Wednesday obtained veteran defensive tackle Ed Khayat from the Philadelphia Eagles for a high 1963 National Football League draft choice.

To make room for Khayat on the 38-man roster, McPeak released rookie lineman Togo Silvan of Adams State.

Khayat's older brother, Bob, is the Redskins placekicker.

The first game were doubles. Johnny Scruggs smacked one in the second inning and scored on an infield out and an error. Bob Lewandowski was stranded on third after a two-bagger in the third. Bill Shirah drove in the other Foxes' run in the sixth with a double.

Cedar Rapids got all four of its first game runs in the third inning when starter Bill St. Peter had control troubles. A pair of walks and a single by Larry Edmunson brought in one run. Vince Ferguson walked and the Foxes brought in Dave Pickle from the bullpen. The first batter, Larry Swift, slammed a double that cleaned the bases for three runs.

In the second game, Cedar Rapids scored three runs in the first inning, one in the third and one in the fifth. Adrian Garrett accounted for the run in the third when he poked his 19th homer of the season.

The Foxes could do little with Komisar in the second game as he limited them to three singles and a double by Shirah.

makers on the attack, were unable to take part in drills. Strom, a good blocker and probably the team's best pass-catching end, was on hand but not in uniform because of a recently-incurred back ailment. News on the availability of Strom, who missed the final five games last year with a different injury, may be known Saturday.

Misses 2 Games

Right halfback Bergult, who also had ill fortune last year (missing the final two crucial games because of a wrist injury) hurt a knee at home several weeks ago. It will be a number of days before Heseltun learns of Bergult's status.

Bergult, a topnotch ball-carrier, also was a regular defensive halfback in his sophomore season.

Two other expected players, besides Bergult, didn't sign in yesterday. They are sophomore guard Tom Ambrose, of Holland, Mich., and soph tackle Steve Sorota, Andover, Mass. Ambrose is regarded as one of the best bets to replace Pete Thomas, an outstanding Vike guard who was graduated last June.

The leading Vike returnees—on the basis of last year's showings—are Carey Wickland, all-conference defensive halfback; Menasha fullback Fred Flom, tackle Walt Chapman, second-team all-MC picks; quarterback Gary Just, national small-college field goal kicking champion; and Tom Schinabeck, all-MC honorable mention.

Gain Experience

Heseltun believes Flom, Wickland and Just will be better than ever because of the experience they've gained in two seasons as Flom, Brainerd, Chapman, Crom-regulars or semi-regulars. Filling of the fourth spot in the backfield will depend on Bergult's condition. If he is unable to start the season at right half, Appleton sophomore Pete Kafura may take over.

Kafura, who didn't hit his stride again are the Vikings' assistant until late in his Appleton High coaches. School grid career, may be groomed for duty at both halves and fullback. Another promising sophomore, Dennis Koskelin, will understudy Green Bay's Just.

Junior Dave Brainerd, the acknowledged title contender; and Vikes' fastest back, will spell Wickland.

Outside of the 250-pound Chapman, the Vikes have no great size in the line. Tackle Luke Groser, at close to 210, is the next heaviest.

Heseltun was understandably pleased about being able to welcome back seven of his 1961 defensive regulars. When Bergult is in shape to play, it will be eight.

If halfback Bergult returns, the entire left side of the 1961 defensive alignment will be intact. The others are Paul Grom-heecke, guard; Chapman, tack-

Frick to Investigate Dealings Between Angels and Kansas City

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today he will investigate the player deal between Los Angeles and Kansas City in which the Angels reportedly promised to deliver Bo Belinsky to the Athletics at the end of the season to seal a deal for a player purchased last July.

Officials of the two clubs involved acknowledged an agreement had been reached to send a player to Kansas City at a future date as part payment for pitcher Dan Osinski, purchased last July 21 for $35,000 from Portland. Kansas City had optioned Osinski to the Pacific Coast League club earlier this year.

Belinsky, a cocky left-hander who came into prominence when he pitched a no-hitter against Baltimore May 5, disclosed Wednesday that he is the player agreed upon.

Other defensive regulars back are linebacker Bob Mueller, right halfback Wickland and right cornerman Flom. Heseltun, thus, will have to find replacements for only the right side of the line. Six 1961 regulars were lost via graduation. Besides Thomas, they are Dan Brink, Bob Landis, Steve Gilboy, Mel Bayer and Bill Meyer.

Not Much Platooning

Heseltun isn't planning on too much platooning this season. The major exceptions of last year will probably perform their specialties again. Besides defenders Eschenbach, Booth and Mueller, they are center Schinabeck and offensive tackle Tom Dishrow.

The only five seniors on the squad are Flom, Just, Schinabeck, Wickland and Strom. The junior lettermen are Bergult, Booth, Brainerd, Chapman, Crom-regulars or semi-regulars. Filling of the fourth spot in the backfield will depend on Bergult's condition. If he is unable to start the season at right half, Appleton sophomore Pete Kafura may take over.

While Robert Frost Reads Poetry in Moscow, Soviets Ship Arms to Cuba

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilization sometimes looks as calm as a beautiful stained glass window. Sometimes it looks as disturbed as a stained glass window that was hit with an empty beer bottle.

All in one day Robert Frost read one of his poems in Moscow; the United States assured Moscow it had good intentions in outer space; Moscow accused the United States and its allies of doubletalk; and a senator revealed that most of the supplies going to Fidel Castro's Cuba for a military buildup are being delivered in ships of this country's Allies.

In a Moscow library Frost recited from "Mending Wall," one of his best known poems. "Something there is," he said, without ever mentioning the Berlin wall, "that doesn't love a wall."

"Good Fences" The Russians didn't know whether to laugh or what. Their confusion is understandable because this poem then goes on to say "good fences make good neighbors," although the United States is extremely unhappy about the fence in Berlin.

In a talk full of the spirit of neighborliness in outer space, Wednesday night Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense, made a speech in Indiana about defense contracts and then threw in this: "The United States has no intention of extending the arms race to outer space and has no program to place any weapons of mass destruction into orbit."

Just in case the Soviets get the notion from what he said that the United States is a patsy, Gilpatric added that this country has a continuing program to make sure it can cope with any "military challenge in outer space."

Gilpatric's statement amounted to official U.S. policy. A Pentagon spokesman said the speech had been cleared by the White House. But, while the administration's intention may be good, it doesn't follow the effect will be, of persistent disbelief in America's good intentions, and not to be outdone, even in skepticism, Americans are equally dubious about the Soviets.

Tormented Hope This would indicate that any hope for American-Russian agreement on outer space looks tormented. It must seem that way to Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., who recently expressed some misgivings.

He said the Russians' success last month in putting their cosmonaut twins into space raised new questions about the military dangers of Free World security."

He suggested congressional hearings on the military significance of the Russians' double space shot, adding: "There has persisted a hope—if waning—that outer space would be dedicated to peaceful purposes. Officially this is the goal of U.S. policy. Unfortunately, however, the Communists have been unwilling to agree realistically on arms control on earth."

And the Russians, as if to fortify Wiley's dubiety, Wednesday night made it clear they not only wouldn't agree with the Western allies on how to solve the Berlin problem but wouldn't even agree to talk about solving it.

They refused once again to join the United States, Britain and France in a four-power discussion on how to ease tension in that German city which is split in half by a massive hunk of Communist concrete.

The Soviets accused the West of double-talking about wanting tensions eased at all and told them either to sign a peace treaty with East Germany, which they've already said they won't do, or get out of the city.

In the past few weeks news that 15 Soviet ships—that's the largest number reported—had carried Soviet military supplies to Cuba was putting a lighted match to this country's anti-Castro temper.

Kennedy Confirms President Kennedy confirmed the Russians were sending in supplies. Then the Russians and Cubans, in a joint announcement Sunday, admitted this was happening.

But Wednesday night the Republican leader of the Senate, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, put an even more unpleasant twist on the arms for Cuba.

He said he and other congressional leaders were informed at a White House briefing: Most of the material Castro is getting for his military buildup is being delivered to him in 61 vessels of four American allies: Britain, Germany, Norway and Greece.

Stanky Given New Post With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A series of personnel shift in the front office of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals was announced Wednesday following the resignation of Walter Shannon as director of player procurement.

The most noteworthy change has former Red Bird Manager Eddie Stanky taking over as director of player development.

Shannon has accepted a job as midwestern director of scouts for the Cleveland Indians of the American League.

Stanky, as director of player development, takes over a position which gives him responsibility for the conduct of the Cardinals' minor league system, and the preparation of players for the major league team.

George Silvey, who previously held the job to which Stanky was appointed, succeeds Shannon as chief scout.

pening. Tuesday night Kennedy warned them not to get aggressive.

But Wednesday night the Republican leader of the Senate, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, put an even more unpleasant twist on the arms for Cuba.

He said he and other congressional leaders were informed at a White House briefing: Most of the material Castro is getting for his military buildup is being delivered to him in 61 vessels of four American allies: Britain, Germany, Norway and Greece.

A message from the Treasury of a free people

How to help give a new birth to freedom

Sometimes it's not easy to recognize a message of freedom.

In September, 1787, the framers of the U. S. Constitution released it to the States for ratification. Two States ok'd the document in a few weeks.

But it took until May, 1790—three years later—before the new nation was in accord on its basic law.

One of the strongest documents for freedom available to you today is a United States Savings Bond.

By buying Savings Bonds you help build peace-keeping machinery. You help keep the wheels of our government turning smoothly. You help carry the message of freedom to hopeful people all over the world.

At the same time, your Bond money grows fast to increase your living standard and personal security—a goal that free people seem to have a knack for reaching.

All of which points pretty strongly to buying Savings Bonds today—at your bank or on the payroll savings plan where you work.

(Of course the decision is wholly up to you... another nice thing about being free.)

Keep freedom in your future with

To Your Good Health Conduction Defects Of Heart Explained

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What is a conduction defect of the heart? Is it serious? Could it be cured?

Dr. Molner: This means some defect in the way the body conducts to the heart the impulses which tell the heart when to contract or "beat."

Two Types
There are two main types. The commonest is called a "bundle branch block," which means some delay in the transmission of the impulse from the upper part of the heart down to the lower chambers, or ventricles, of the heart. The signal, in other words, is somewhat slowed down before reaching its final destination.

Generally, this doesn't require treatment. There are no symptoms that you can detect. You can't find it with a stethoscope. In fact, this kind of conduction defect isn't usually discovered at all until you have an electrocardiogram.

Since high blood pressure or coronary heart disease are two possible causes of the "bundle branch block," it's obviously wise to examine the patient for these possibilities, and treat them if they are present. If no such troubles exist, then as a rule the delayed signal isn't anything to fret about.

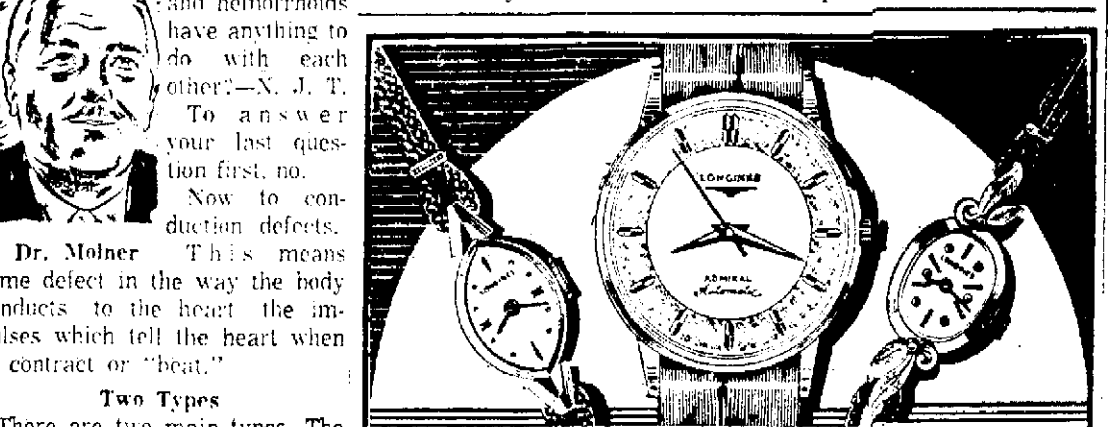

Serious Defect
However, the other main variety of conduction defect is a more serious matter. Instead of the "heart-beat impulse" being delayed in transit, there is a slowing-up at the point where the impulse starts.

This is an actual slowing up instead of a delay-in-transit, so to speak. The impulse doesn't originate as often as it should. Thus the time at which the heart beats is not merely delayed; the heart doesn't get enough signals to beat. Without these signals, it doesn't beat.

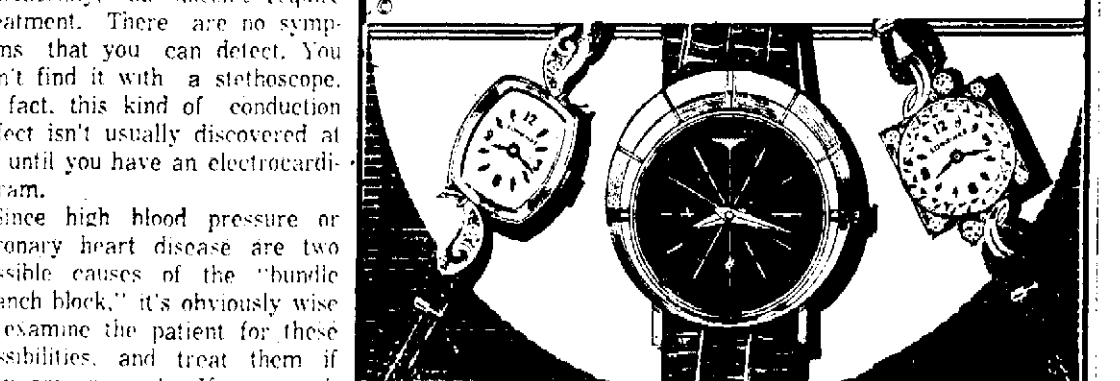

A slight delay doesn't matter. But when the heart beats only 45 times a minute, for example, instead of 60 or 70, more or less, that's a different matter. This sort of defect certainly requires treatment.

Treatment Needed
Various drugs are used, such as ephedrine, atropine, benzedrine and the steroids (cortisone, etc.) to speed up the heart rate. In extremely serious cases, work is now going on with special devices which substitute an electrical impulse at a somewhat faster rate than the slow speed. These are called "pacemakers."

GOP Not Worried By Primary Voting

Republicans Likely to Retain Majority in Legislative Houses

BY FRANK CREPEAU
MADISON (AP)—At least one daub of political certainty can be added to Wisconsin's 1962 election picture.

The primary election holds no terrors for Republican State Senate candidates and the GOP is sure to hold its comfortable majority in that house when the ballots are counted in November.

Of the 14 holdovers starting the second half of four-year terms in the 33-member body, no less than 12 are Republicans and only two are Democrats.

Veteran Senators
That leaves eight seats now held by Republicans and 11 Democratic seats up for election this year. And of those eight Republican seats, six are held by Senate veterans who seek to continue their long tenure in the legislature.

Sen. Frank Panzer, 71, of Brownsville, will be going after a sixth consecutive term. Sen. Peter Carr of Janesville is 73 and seeks a third consecutive term in the 15th District.

Sen. Jess Miller of Richland Center, at 76 the oldest man in the Senate, is a candidate for a seventh term in a Senate career that goes back to 1938. Earl Leverich of Sparta was first elected to the Senate in 1934 and has won reelection since 1942. He is 71. And Sen. Chester Dempsey of Hartland, 66, is a candidate for a fifth consecutive term.

No Opposition
None has any opposition in Tuesday's primary election.

The sixth veteran, Sen. William B. Draheim of Neenah, faces primary opposition from Warren E. Wilke of Oshkosh in his bid for a fourth term.

Draheim, co-chairman of the legislature's powerful Joint Finance Committee, is expected to win the primary and meet Herbert G. Pitz, an Oshkosh Democrat, in the Nov. 6 election. In 1958 Draheim outpolled Pitz 21,993 to 16,986.

Should those six GOP senators and the Democrats take all but the rest of the contests, the Republicans still would have an 18-15 margin in the Senate.

5 GOP Candidates

Republicans also are confident of keeping a GOP senator in the 17th District, comprising Grant, Green, Iowa and LaFayette counties. Republican Robert Travis of Plattville resigned from the Senate and five members of his party are vying for the nomination to succeed him.

for seats held by Democrats in the 1961 session because of the appointment of Horace Wilkie of Madison to the Wisconsin Supreme Court and the naming of William Moser of Milwaukee as a county judge. The two vacancies provide contests in the even-numbered 26th and 6th districts in an election year in which senators form odd numbered districts are up.

Hot Fight
Moser had no GOP opposition when he was elected in 1960 and a hot fight between four Democrats is expected in the primary.

Democratic aspirants are Martin J. Schreiber, Richard C. Emery, John Schaller and Assemblyman Frederick Kessler. Edward A. Backus is the lone GOP candidate.

In the 26th District, Fred A. Risser, a veteran of three terms in the Assembly, will be opposed in November by Republican Don Brownsville. He is going after a seat left vacant by Wilkie's appointment to the Supreme Court.

In the Milwaukee County 5th District, Assemblyman Charles Schmidt is the Democratic candidate and former State Senator the Senate, is a candidate for a Bernhardt Gettelman the GOP candidate to succeed James Brennan who was appointed a U.S. attorney.

Democrats Retired
Two other Democratic senators who retired are Howard Cameron of Rice Lake and Carl Larui of Superior. Seeking Cameron's seat is Democrat Robert Perno of Grantsburg and Republican John G. Maroon of Barron and Holger Rasmussen of Spooner are contesting for the GOP nomination.

Running to succeed Lauri are Assemblyman Frank Christopher, son of Superior and John R. Lynch of Gordon from the Democratic party and Republicans Hance Committee, is expected to meet E. Cloutier and Rudolph win the primary and meet Herbert G. Pitz, an Oshkosh Democrat, in the Nov. 6 election. In 1958 Draheim outpolled Pitz 21,993 to 16,986.

Kennedy, Keating Differ on Size of Soviet-Cuban Buildup

Administration 'Covering Up' Full Details, New York Senator Claims

BY DAVID KRASLOW AND ROBERT BOYD
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Is the Kennedy administration giving the American people the full story of the massive Russian buildup in Cuba?

A Republican senator, Kenneth Keating of New York, accuses the government of withholding the facts from the public.

High U.S. officials deny the charge. They insist that the administration has made known, through the press, all the "hard forms, and in fact, have not worn any in Cuba.

The surprising thing to American officials is that the Soviet "technicians" are not in uniform. They point out that members of U.S. military missions in foreign countries are in uniform.

Six days before the senator opened his attack, U.S. officials put out a detailed summary of the flow of Soviet military equipment and technicians to Cuba.

The administration report differs in only a few respects from the material Keating included in his speeches on the Senate floor.

"Trained Observers" On the points where the senator and the administration disagree, officials claim their view is borne out by "trained observers" as opposed to unconfirmed reports from Cuban exiles and refugee sources.

One official said refugee reports should be taken with a grain of salt. He said refugee groups have an obvious interest in exaggerating what is happening in Cuba.

The argument between Keating and the administration may be largely one of semantics and stress.

Keating refers to Russian "troops"; the administration speaks of "military technicians."

In both cases they are military personnel subject to military discipline. But to U.S. officials, "troops" means organized combat available as fast as it is obtained and properly verified.

Receipt Verified The statement said that the personnel now arriving in Cuba United States has verified Cuban receipt of anti-aircraft defense task it will be to train Cuban soldiers (which the administration deters in the use of highly complex had said previously was probable) electronics and communications and Soviet-made torpedo boats equipment.

carrying ship-to-ship guided missiles with a range of 15 miles. Keating says flatly the Soviet "troops" were wearing Russian uniforms upon arrival.

An analysis of Keating's "cover-up" charge—first made Friday U.S. officials say just as flatly and repeated Tuesday—makes it that they were not wearing uniforms.

Intelligence it has received from Cuba.

President Kennedy himself, perhaps nettled by Keating's continuing criticism, released a state-penned Tuesday night saying, "We shall continue to make information available as fast as it is obtained and properly verified."

Complex Equipment They say the Russian military personnel now arriving in Cuba appear to be specialists whose receipt of anti-aircraft defense task it will be to train Cuban soldiers (which the administration deters in the use of highly complex had said previously was probable) electronics and communications and Soviet-made torpedo boats equipment.

Need $59,000 For Operation Of Schools

Funds to be Sought From Districts Added to Appleton

The Appleton Board of Education may have to request an additional $59,000 from the common council to cover the operating deficit for the remainder of 1962 resulting from operation of attached areas, director of business affairs William Knuth told the board Tuesday.

When the 1962 budget was approved last fall, no provision legally could be made for the possible annexation of schools not then a part of the Appleton system. Five complete school districts and parts of four others were attached to Appleton July 1.

Cash balances to be turned over to the city from the attached areas will total more than $80,000. Expenses to the city for the remainder of the year will total about $67,500, including about $39,000 for the operating deficit, pay-ment of a short term loan of $7,000 and interest payments on bonded indebtedness.

Make Assessments A special assessment will be made against the attached areas next year to cover their proportionate share of the operation of the city schools for the final six months of 1962. They will receive credit against this assessment for the cash balance turned over to the city and for their share of the state and county aids.

Only the Woodlawn District has said between 3,000 and 5,000 Russians had arrived, at least half sufficient funds on hand to cover of whom were military specialists, its share of the 1962 operating deficit. Knuth said, and the other attached districts will have to revise their estimate to 5,000.

mit the special assessment to the city treasurer along with the regular 1963 school assessment. The board approved a letter to the city council requesting the city to pay a short term loan made by the Twin Willow District. The loan of $7,000 plus $95 interest was due Sept. 1.

Expenses to the city for the remainder of the year will total about $67,500, including about $39,000 for the operating deficit, pay-ment of a short term loan of $7,000 and interest payments on bonded indebtedness.

Make Assessments A special assessment will be made against the attached areas next year to cover their proportionate share of the operation of the city schools for the final six months of 1962. They will receive credit against this assessment for the cash balance turned over to the city and for their share of the state and county aids.

Only the Woodlawn District has said between 3,000 and 5,000 Russians had arrived, at least half sufficient funds on hand to cover of whom were military specialists, its share of the 1962 operating deficit. Knuth said, and the other attached districts will have to revise their estimate to 5,000.

mit the special assessment to the city treasurer along with the regular 1963 school assessment. The board approved a letter to the city council requesting the city to pay a short term loan made by the Twin Willow District. The loan of $7,000 plus $95 interest was due Sept. 1.

'Political Quarterly' Has New Ownership LONDON (AP)—Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, is assuming financial control of the company has father looked on approvingly publishing the Political Quarterly but offered no help. For over two hours he worked the fish, the existing shareholders.

Manitowoc Experiment MADISON — The first experimental steps in what may become a new program of aid to the aged and chronically ill in the general population are being taken in Manitowoc County under present arrangements.

The subsidized nursing care will be confined to long-term or chronic disease categories of illness and may include baths, treatments, medication and dressings. The objective is to assist the patient to restoration of normal life.

Physicians in Manitowoc County are co-operating in the program and have set up an advisory committee to review the work and to establish policies for the guidance of the nurses hired to care for the patients.

The normal fee for nursing the program, said the health department may select one or two tents is $3 for the first hour, 50 additional counties for such services for each additional hour and ice, according to the experience a minimum of $1.50 for a half hour in the Manitowoc County project or less. For those unable to pay and the interest of other county health agencies.

Fire Destroys Freedom Barn

$35,000 Damages Result; 2 Other Alarms Answered

FREEDOM — A blaze burning a rural Freedom barn and milk house to the ground was among three fires reported to the Freedom Fire Dept. last week.

The barn, filled with chopped hay, and a milk-house, belonging to the Albert VandeWettering farm south of here were leveled by the blaze at 5:30 a.m. Aug. 29.

It took Freedom volunteer firemen more than 12 hours to extinguish the blaze. An adjoining grain and machine shed and a large chicken house about 30 feet from the barn were saved.

Fourteen calves usually housed in the barn were in the field at the time the fire broke out.

Approximately 400 tons of hay, a barn cleaner, milker, a silo and a silo unloader were completely destroyed.

Estimated loss was between $30,000 and $35,000.

The volunteer firemen were called to the John Botezel trailer home Aug. 29 to extinguish meat left burning on the stove. No fire damage was done, but there was extensive smoke damage.

Lightning struck and burned an electrical wire on the gas water heater and led to a fire at the Cliff Rademacher home northeast of here at 8:30 p.m. Friday night.

The bolt burned a hole in the gas line, allowing gas to escape. The gas ignited, and the entire basement was in flames when firemen arrived.

Harrison Firemen Set September Meeting

SHERWOOD — The Town of Harrison No. 1 Volunteer Fire Department will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Fire Hall in Sherwood.

Sunday they will celebrate their annual family picnic at Sacred Heart School.

*DOC SAYS:

"It doesn't cost
It pays to belong"

When a Wisconsin dairy farmer counts up his farm investments and finds the total at least $50,000, he often starts counting the cost of most everything he must buy.

But the cost of belonging to a sound dairy cooperative, such as one of the 14 members of DAIRY OPERATING COOPERATIVES, is money wisely invested.

Down through the years operating cooperatives have expanded and improved their manufacturing facilities, repaid much of this invested capital and at the same time paid their farmer members the highest price possible for their milk.

The successful farmer knows it pays to be a member of his own operating cooperative, which is his best market and a guaranteed market, today, tomorrow and everyday. Are you a member?

Sugar Refinery Resumes Work

Green Bay Company Receives Shipment From Caribbean

The West German steamer Alexandra Sartori tied up at Leicht's Terminal today carrying the first raw sugar to be refined this year at the Wisconsin refining process before packing.

The plant operated by Wisconsin Sugar Co., Green Bay, will process the sugar at the rate of 400,000 pounds daily in a continuous operation functioning 24 hours a day, seven days per week. The cane stalks and crystallizing process requires about 8 hours. The cargo is shipped entirely in bulk. No special precautions are required in handling since the process requires about 8 hours.

The factory will employ approximately 100 employees during the refining process before packing. Now is the Time to Feast on Tomatoes

Thursday, Sept. 6, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent C1

A Marmalade Recipe destined to become a homemaker's treasure is this Spiced Tomato variety. It's subtly fragrant with allspice and ginger and combines ripe tomatoes with the fruit and slivered rinds of fresh lemon and orange.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

Vine-ripened tomatoes are at their peak right now, ready for some plain and fancy eating. This rosy red (or yellow) vegetable . . . recognized as a fruit when eaten out of hand or as an appetizer . . . is one of the most versatile and nutritious of harvest produce. It's loaded with vitamins A and C . . . particularly when vine-ripened . . . and long has been popular in juice form, or as a colorful addition to salads, stews and casseroles.

Although sliced tomatoes served plain are delicious when fully ripe, there are many ways to dress them up. The French recipe for Tomates aux Fines Herbes is an excellent example.

Tomatoes are cut into halves or slices as preferred. The French gently press the tomato to expel the seeds. Then they are seasoned with salt and pepper and fried lightly in a pan in which butter has been melted. More butter is melted in a second pan; finely ground bread crumbs are added and sauteed. When the tomatoes are sauteed enough, they are placed in a dish and sprinkled with parsley and the butter-crumbsauce, served piping hot.

Prepared the same way with olive oil instead of butter and adding chopped garlic to the recipe, they become Tomates a la Provencale.

Tomato recipes today include a marvelous marmalade that could make elegant remembrances from the kitchen at holiday time. It's a recipe that will be treasured with its combination of tomatoes, orange and lemon, fruit peels and fragrant spices.

Other selections are recipes for tomatoes with three new prepared dressings, Spicy French, plain French and Italian. The other two recipes are supper or dinner standbys . . . a Tomato Sausage Bake and Stuffed Tomatoes and Squash.

Spiced Tomato Marmalade

3 pounds ripe tomatoes
3 pounds sugar
2 fresh lemons
1 fresh orange
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
Scald tomatoes, then dip in cold water and remove skins. Cut into quarters and place in a three-quart saucepan. This should make about seven and one-half cups tomato pulp. Add sugar and let stand while preparing lemons and orange.

Peel lemons and orange. Cut rinds into thin, fine slivers and set aside. Cut fruit into small pieces and add to tomatoes.

Cover tomatoes, sugar, orange and lemon pieces with water. Boil 10 minutes. Drain and discard water.

Add rind to drained tomato mixture along with salt and ginger. Bring to boiling point; cook 40 minutes, uncovered, over medium-low heat until mixture is thick and rinds are transparent. The mixture needs occasional stirring. The marmalade will be a little thin.

Add allspice five minutes before cooking time is up. Ladle into hot, sterilized jars. Seal at once. Recipe makes two and one-half pints of marmalade.

Stuffed Tomatoes and Squash

4 medium tomatoes
4 medium squash
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 small onion, chopped
3 ribs celery, chopped
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Hollow out tomatoes and squash, the tomatoes from the stem end and the fat portion of the squash from the side. Save scooped-out vegetables; saute in melted butter with finely chopped onion and celery. Add ground beef and saute until meat is brown. Add cooked rice and seasonings. Toss mixture together well. Stuff tomato and squash shells generously, mounding high.

Place stuffed tomatoes and squash in shallow baking dish with enough water to cover bottom of the pan about one-half inch high. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Recipe serves four persons.

Tomato Sausage Bake

4 large tomatoes
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 pound seasoned pork sausage meat

Cut tomatoes in halves and arrange in greased casserole, cut side up. Top each tomato half with a sprinkling of chopped onion and then a sausage patty. Bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Recipe serves from four to six persons.

Marinated Tomatoes

1/2 cup Italian corn oil dressing
1/4 cup finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon finely chopped green onion
4 large tomatoes, peeled and sliced

Combine dressing, parsley and onion. Chill to blend flavors. Arrange tomato slices in layers in shallow dish. Pour dressing mixture over tomatoes, shaking dish frequently to cover tomatoes adequately.

Tomatoes and Summer squash, both stuffed with a rice and beef mixture, make a bright and colorful dish that needs only a simple salad and beverage to make a complete meal.

Sandwiches Freeze With Ease

Add glamor to your party food with an inviting arrangement of fancy sandwiches. Let guests choose from a spreading bread with soft butter slice.

gay assortment of Checkerboards, Pinwheels, Roll-Ups, and Little Layers. All are make-aheads. You can make your assortment up to two weeks ahead and store in your home freezer. Wrap in foil and freeze immediately. When ready to use, allow about three hours for thawing.

Best fillings to freeze are American cheese, sliced or ground meat, fish, chicken, or turkey. Skip mayonnaise, lettuce, tomatoes, and egg salad. When making rolled sandwiches, it's helpful to roll bread lightly (blend 1/4 cup soft butter, 1 1/2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, and 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice.) For pretty centers, line up to handle and it's less likely to crack. Prevent soggy by stuffed olives near end of each slice.

Parsley Pinwheels

Trim crusts from one loaf unsliced sandwich bread. Cut loaf in lengthwise slices one-fourth inch thick. Spread with Parsley Butter.

Roll as for jelly roll. Wrap in waxed paper; chill. At serving time, place roll seam side against board; cut in three-eighths inch slices.

Canape Flowerpots

Unsticed bread
6 1/2-ounce can crab meat, flaked
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup mayonnaise
Sprigs of parsley

Cut bread in one-inch slices; freeze. Cut out circles from frozen slices with one-inch round cutter. Hollow out centers with scissors or paring knife, leaving bottom and sides about one-fourth inch thick. Combine crab meat, celery, green pepper and seasonings. Add lemon juice and mayonnaise; mix well. Chill. Heap filling in "flowerpots." Garnish top of each with a small sprig of parsley.

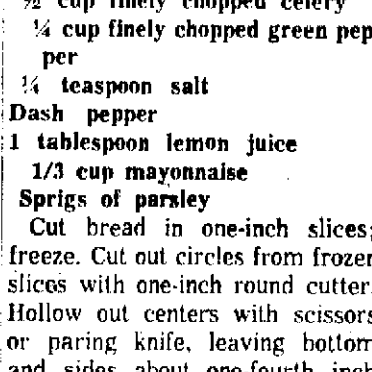

Cherry-Cheese Rolls

3-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons soft butter
20 maraschino cherries
2 lengthwise thin slices bread

Combine cream cheese and chopped cherries. Spread each slice of bread with butter, then with cheese-cherry mixture. Cut each slice in half crosswise. Place row of five cherries across width of each half slice of bread, pressing cherries firmly together and end to end. Roll as for jelly roll, starting at cherry end. Wrap each roll in waxed paper; chill. To serve, unwrap and cut into six slices.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

INCLUDE THE MISS After graduating from college two years ago, I moved to another city where I am employed and sharing an apartment with another girl. Many of my classmates have been getting married and I received invitations to their weddings and receptions. I have always phrased my formal third person acceptances or regrets as Genevieve Williams, without the Miss. I have recently been told that this is not correct. Please advise.

Louise Davis Answers:

The Miss should be included with your name. Socially and formally you are Miss Genevieve Williams and I'm sure that is the way the envelopes were addressed to you. The acknowledgment is as formal as the invitation, therefore one should be consistent.

AVERSION TO NAME

My younger sister's fiancé hates his middle name and insists that only its initial must appear on the invitations and announcements. I think this would be in poor taste and that friends would criticize our family. Will you please inform me whether I am right or wrong?

Louise Davis Answers:

You are right. If the young man has such an aversion to his middle name, why doesn't he discard it entirely? I recommend that just his first and last name appear on the invitations and announcements without any initial at all.

Sheinwold Curiosity Kills Play

Some bridge players remind me of the lady who gaped at the hippopotamus in the zoo and asked the keeper if the animal was male or female. "That," replied the keeper, "can be of interest only to another hippopotamus."

When this hand was played East took the first two diamonds and returned a trump.

South drew trumps and then began to wonder which opponent had the queen of clubs. To find out, he led a club to dummy's king and returned the jack of clubs for a finesse. He got the answer when West won with the queen of clubs. By this time, of course, South was hopelessly lost. He had already lost three tricks and was sure to lose at least one heart.

Useless Information
South was the victim of his own aimless curiosity. The location of the queen of clubs, like the gender of a hippopotamus, is useless information.

The location of the jack of hearts is a different story. South must go after the hearts and must try to limit the loss in that suit to one trick. He should plan to discard a club from dummy on his own fourth heart; and that's why the queen of clubs should never play an active role in this hand.

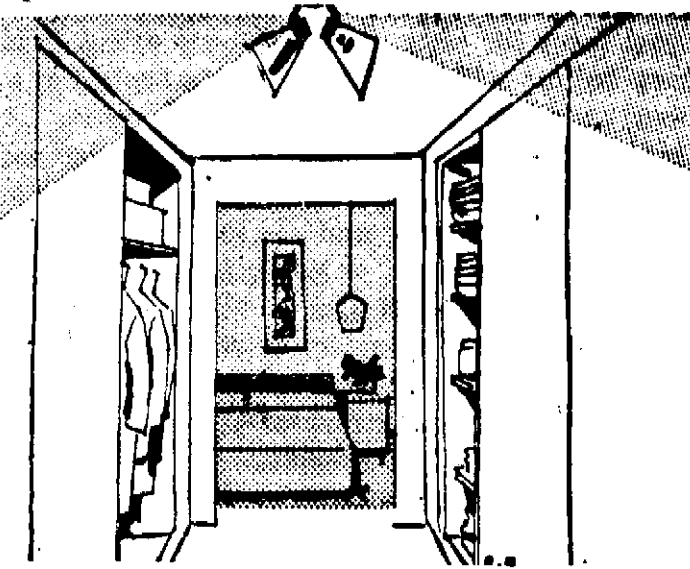

The best plan is to lead a low heart from the South hand toward dummy's queen. When this wins, declarer should return the nine of hearts for a finesse. This method enables him to cope with four to the jack.

If declarer leads the first heart to his own king, he cannot cope with four hearts to the jack. South cannot tell who has the jack but should play the suit in such a way as to make the most out of his holding if he does happen to guess right.

More Light for the Hall

Unless it's the entrance hall, and is treated to a decorative chandelier, a hall usually copes with the most ordinary lighting. Whether the light is adequate or isn't, it's taken for granted because hall fixtures are taken for granted. It's assumed that since the light comes from a ceiling fixture, almost any ceiling fixture of the right size will do.

The sketch shows how wise it is to question stand-pat hall lighting. This hall necessarily depends on a ceiling fixture, which might have been the kind that sometimes too much light to the ceiling, and too little to the lower walls and floor. Instead, then, a ceiling fixture was refused for the sake of one that does so much more—it beams light deep into closets on both sides of the hall, exactly where it's needed. Twin arms of the fixture adjust to the best possible angles. From the single, established light source, specific light is provided along with efficient general lighting for the hall.

Mrs. R. B. "Should the new cornices I bought for my living room be painted to match the white enameled woodwork, or the champagne-beige walls? One window is 105 inches wide and the other is 42 inches wide. The rug is golden brown, the sofa and a chair are slipcovered in white with small green and brown roses, and the draperies have tan, brown and orange pattern on a white background. To what color could I change the draperies and slipcovers?"

Make the cornices belong to the windows most definitely by repeating the drapery background. The white continuing from below also will make the windows look full height, while a band of the wall color spreading across the tops would make them look lower. The draperies and slipcovers could be changed to any of the colors which are so pleasing with beige and brown—you might go in for a range of blues and greens, or for yellow, orange, mustard and olive shades, for example—but cover the cornices with the drapery fabric, or paint them to match the drapery background.

Dealer Can Tell About Tile Work

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We are having an extra bathroom made out of a storage area downstairs. A plumber is installing the plumbing, but I want to finish the walls myself. Where can I get information on putting in ceramic tile?

A: Your tile dealer probably has manufacturer's instructions available. Or send 50 cents to Directions Simplified, Inc., P.O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N. Y., for a copy of their leaflet, "How to Lay Ceramic Tile."

Darkened Bronze

Q: I have a small bronze statue that has darkened from neglect. How can I brighten it?

A: To brighten bronze surfaces, rub with dry whiting or rottenstone. Then rinse the powder off with clear water and wipe dry with a clean, soft cloth. To protect the metal surface, apply a very thin coat of good quality paste wax.

Rain Seepage in Cellar

Q: We moved into an old house we purchased several months ago. The basement has a concrete floor and concrete walls. After very heavy rainfall, we find water seeps through the floor and the lower part of the walls. What do you recommend we do?

A: The water seepage may be due to lack of drain tile at the wall footing. Water collects outside the walls, finds weak places and works through. Before going to the expensive and tedious job of excavating and laying drain tile, try applying a masonry waterproofing preparation available at masonry supplies dealers.

If drain tile is eventually installed, while the wall is exposed, apply a coat of itch or liquid asphalt waterproofing to the outside of the foundation. Then embed a layer of overlapping sheets of asphalt-saturated roll roofing, followed by another

Easy Does It, Best Rule for Omelets

BY MALCOLM R. HEBERT
Chicago Daily News Service

Temperamental is the omelet. Toss it about and it toughens. Treat it gently and it is smooth, golden and delicious.

Omelets show up in various countries under various names. In Spain they are called tortillas. In Italy they become frittatas and in Sweden they are transformed into baked Alaska.

Many people are afraid to try their hand at omelet-making, but it is easy and a chef should have some knowledge of the procedure.

First you need a good omelet pan. Once you start using it re-

PET DOCTOR
By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. My dog had pneumonia and ran a high fever. Now she is barren. Can a high fever damage the reproductive organs of a female dog? Terry Dedrick, Covina, Cal.

A. A high fever in itself would not cause barrenness. If she had pneumonia and a generalized infection, there is a good possibility that the infection remained in the uterus after it was cleared up elsewhere. If the infection is cleared up, she should be able to reproduce. On the other hand, if she is not coming into heat at all you are faced with a disturbance of the ovaries. Usually proper hormones can reactivate the ovaries. A thorough examination by a veterinarian would determine the cause of the barrenness. In most cases proper treatment will restore the gift of motherhood.

(Dr. Moller will send books on pet care to readers submitting best questions. Mail yours on a postcard in care of this paper.)

serve it thereafter for omelets only. NEVER WASH IT. After the omelet has been made, wipe the pan clean with a paper towel. If particles of the omelet still adhere to it, a dash of salt rubbed with the paper towel will clean it completely.

An aluminum or cast-iron pan eight inches in diameter at the bottom and 10 inches in diameter at the top is just right. If it's a new pan season it with a little cooking oil heated slowly in the pan. Then wipe it and it's ready to use.

In omelet-making two eggs per person is sufficient. Always use fresh eggs. For a lighter mixture use water rather than cream or milk. Butter is best for cooking. Place butter in pan, when it foams heavily, add omelet mixture.

Basic Omelet

2 eggs
Dash of salt
1 teaspoon cold water
1 1/2 teaspoons butter
Dash of pepper

Break eggs and mix in salt and water. Beat until frothy. Heat butter in pan until foamy and just ready to turn brown on edges. Pour egg mixture into pan. Cook slowly over heat until bottom is firm. Using spatula lift side and fold over. Make a small slash in center to determine if it is cooked to the desired doneness. Sprinkle with pepper and dot with butter. Serve immediately.

After a few practice sessions you'll be ready for this Italian style omelet.

Frittata Fiorentina (Florentine Omelet)

1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon light cream
Dash of salt, pepper, basil and oregano
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/2 cup chopped, cooked ham
1 tablespoon chopped green olives
4 tablespoons chopped mozzarella cheese

Parsley

Saute mushrooms in one teaspoon of the butter and set aside. Mix eggs, cream, salt, pepper, basil, oregano and Parmesan cheese. Heat olive oil and one tablespoon of the butter until foamy. Add omelet mixture and cook over low heat until top is soft. Remove from heat. Dot the top with ham, mushrooms, olives, mozzarella cheese and remaining butter. Bake in a preheated, 450-degree oven three to five minutes. Serve at once garnished with sprigs of parsley. Recipe yields three to four servings.

Your Problems
Woman Finds There's More To Calories Than Meal Count

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the nine years we've been married my wife has gained 35 pounds. She is only 5' 2" and she weighed 125 pounds when we married so you can imagine what she looks like now.
She has gone to three doctors in two years to find out why she has gained so much weight. She'd like a doctor to tell her she has a glandular problem, but no doctor has been able to find anything wrong with her glands, so naturally, they are all crazy.
Every evening at the dinner table she points out that she eats less than our seven-year-old. Actually, this is true.
Frankly, I'm a little at a loss to figure out why she is so much overweight. Can you explain it?
Anxious Husband
Dear Husband: If the doctors can find nothing organically wrong with her it means she is eating more food than her body needs.
I'm not a detective so I can't tell you how she manages to smuggle the food into her mouth, but her weight is evidence that she is managing, somehow.
Many women nibble between meals. Others taste when they cook. The "tasting" is never considered "eating," of course — and the nibbling is forgotten. When they clear away the dishes some women eat the left overs instead of putting them in the refrigerator or throwing them out. The body counts these calories, even if the eater does not.
If your wife honestly wants to lose weight she'll have to put herself in the hands of a doctor and stop making excuses.
DEAR ANN: I'm 25 years old and feel the years slipping away. Worst of all I find myself hating my mother which makes me alternately guilty and furious.
Dad died when I was 16. I didn't go away to college because Mother couldn't be left alone. So I went to work.
I meet interesting people but I can't bring anyone home because mother bores them to death. The house is a mess because mother doesn't like to clean. She refuses to have help because a maid "gets in the way."
She opens my mail, listens to my phone conversations, and faked a heart attack last year to keep me from taking a vacation. I'm dying to move out and mother could manage financially with me, but whenever I bring it up she says she's not well enough to live alone.
Please, please tell me what to do. —Knots in my Stomach
Dear Knots: You know what to do, you just want someone to tell you to go ahead and do it. So—I'll tell you. Move out now.

A Lovelier You
By Mary Sue Miller

Flapping Ankles
A lovely woman: My ankles are heavy and kind of wobbly. So I am in a dilemma. When I wear spike heels my ankles naturally look slimmer, but they flap more than ever. What can be done for me?
The answer: heavy ankles can be reduced. Wobbly ankles can be strengthened. Meanwhile appearances can be improved without resorting to spike heels.
Either heels or covered, mid-heels improve the support situation. A dark pump with a slender throat and a mid-heel has a notably slimming effect. And this is increased by seamed, matte-finished, no sheen stockings in deep tones like off-black, when brown and inky gray. As such pumps and stockings, in both daytime and evening versions, are in fashion's favor, there's no treatment aspect to wearing them at any hour.
Now to get to the base of the trouble — the reduction of the flesh and the buttressing of the muscles. It is achieved by these routines:
Stand with feet together. Slowly raise right heel as high as possible; then gradually lower it. As right heel starts down, raise left heel. Continue for twenty counts. Then walk, using same foot action, for twenty counts.

more. Work throughout for a smooth, rhythmic transfer of weight.
Still standing, curl left ankle around back of right ankle. Then curl left foot clear around the right ankle. It cannot be done, but the try is essential to reverse foot positions and continue as before.

Leathery Look of Fashion Does Not Apply to Skin

While the heat and the humidity carefully lest it become dry and leathery. There are many creams and moisturizers for lubricating the skin and replacing the moisture taken away by the sun. Strong, too - drying astringents should be avoided. Witch hazel, a natural herb product, makes an ideal skin freshener and mild astringent.
The legs, too, should be given regular care to avoid the leathery look. The same lotions that are effective on the face will work here. During the stockless season when shaving is a frequent must, extra precaution should be taken against nicks and razor scrapes. After shaving, massage the legs with witch hazel.

Water Hunt At Chilton To Begin

CHILTON — The search for water in Chilton will begin some- time next week, the city council earned Tuesday.

Geologists and seismograph en- gineers from the Layne-North- west Co., Milwaukee, will launch their underground water quest which has been requested by the council and Utilities Commission. 2 30 a.m. Tuesday.

Primarily, the survey will be con- centrated in the downtown area near Well No. 1. If a substantial water source can be located with the resistivity and seismograph tests near the present well's facilities, it could result in a substan- tial saving for the city.

Existing well equipment, clar- ificators, softeners and storage re- servoir could be utilized. The equip- ment has been standing idle for almost two years since the well was contaminated by an under- ground fuel storage tank leak.

Bonduel Businesses Report Break-ins

BONDUEL — The Bonduel vil- lage police and the Shawano County Sheriff's Department are investigating break-ins of two Bonduel business places about 2 30 a.m. Tuesday.

The Mueller Tavern reported $45 taken from the cash register. The Bonduel Bowling Arcade is miss- ing $48. Vandalism was reported in the bowling alley, a new es- tablishment opened two weeks ago.

ket. Also available are the Weal- thies, Dudleys, Greenings, Duch- ews. A few Jonathans are making their appearance. Cantaloupe and watermelon remain available, and some good values lie in the honey- dew melon also. Nectarines, of large size, are available at very reasonable prices.

More beef and pork supplies are expected by the first of Oc- tober, with beef supplies larger than a year ago. Pork will be not quite as plentiful as last fall; however, prices are expected to drop by Oct. 1.

While there will be no shortage of frying chicken and turkey this fall, there is a lower production than a year ago. This week, you will find frying chicken continu- ing to be a good value. Eggs re- main plentiful again this week. Dairy products continue to be a very good value again this week.

Produce Available

In fresh produce, head lettuce and celery, both of excellent qual- ity, are low in price. Tomatoes are available in large supply with quality mediocre to good. Sweet corn not quite so plentiful as last year, is still low in price. Cab- bage, both the green and the red, is a real buy again this week and the quality is excellent. Cauli- flower is coming to market in larger quantities this week.

Potatoes are plentiful, with both the Early Gem and red potatoes available in large supply at low prices. Green peppers are just starting, not showing too large a supply from local areas. Cucum- bers remain a little hard to get, showing a poor year for home- grown. However, the price con- tinues low. Salad greens are now being shipped in from out of state.

Radar Unit Used by Police Out of Order

CHILTON — A blown tube in the radar unit has put city po- lice "out of business" for two weeks, Police Chief Harry Thompson told the City Council Tues- day night.

The main unit of the three-year- old equipment is out of order, Thompson said, and will cost about $250 to repair. By trading in the present unit a new trans- istor radar could be purchased for about $1,000, Thompson said.

"The old one has paid for its keep," he said.

The council authorized the pur- chase of a new unit.

GOP Candidate Hits Reynolds, Democrats

Attorney-General Hopeful Speaks to Appleton Audience

"Mr Reynolds has been caught up with," Robert G Marotz, Republican-endorsed candidate for attorney general, told a gathering of lawyers and Republican party members Wednesday.

Marotz spoke at a noon luncheon at the Conway Motor Hotel. He used a 30-foot scroll which contained 53 editorials from 28 Wisconsin newspapers to show how editorial opinion has reflected the attitude of Wisconsin residents to John W Reynolds, present attorney general who is running for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Among the editorials quoted were.

Irresponsible

Marinette Eagle-Star of June 13 1962 "... He still remains an irresponsible individual whose election as governor would be tragic if his party won control of the legislature."

Madison Capital Times of June 6 1962 "We are particularly skeptical about the pledges of candidate Reynolds who has the habit of making sweeping promises as a candidate and then turning back when he is in office."

Marotz contended that a complete misunderstanding has arisen in the minds of the people in the last few years about what the function of the attorney general is. "It has become identified as a publicity office."

Madison Lawyer

Marotz, former Shawano County assemblyman and a former speaker of the assembly now is chief clerk of the assembly and practices law in Madison.

Marotz said he devoted most of his talk to Reynolds and the Democratic party, rather than the candidates for the office of luncheon.

Miss Illinois Gets Swim Suit Pageant Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Miss Illinois, a shapely brunette who plans to teach retarded children has captured the swim suit event in first round competition of the Miss America pageant.

Pamela Gilbert 21, of Carbondale, Ill., was one of two winners Wednesday night in the nation's annual king-sized beauty and brains contest.

Charlotte Ann Carroll, 19, of Waltham, Miss., took honors in talent competition with a dancing and singing impersonation of a comic strip character.

Plans to Teach

Miss Gilbert a senior at Southern Illinois University, is 5 foot-6 and weighs 115 pounds. She plans to teach mentally retarded children Miss Gilbert who possessed a bundle of beauty crowns during college, sports measurements of 36 24 36.

She defeated 17 other girls in the swim suit competition.

During the three nights of preliminary competition, each contestant will appear in each category 13 1962 "... He still remains an irresponsible individual whose election as governor would be tragic if his party won control of the legislature."

Get Grants

The preliminary swim suit and talent winners are assured of $1,000 scholarships regardless of whether they advance to Saturday night's semifinals and finals.

He said the Democratic party in the minds of the people in the last few years about what the function of the attorney general is. "It has become identified as a publicity office."

Need For Responsibility

He accused the Democrats of operation by press release and said there was a great need for responsibility in government and fiscally responsible Republican approach has been responsible he said.

Marotz said he devoted most of his talk to Reynolds and the Democratic party, rather than the candidates for the office of luncheon.

Durable Comedian

Harold Lloyd's Antics Still Hilariously Funny

BY LILLIAN MACKESY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There's a bespectacled, straw-hatted funnyman starring in the new movie at the Appleton Theater.

Harold Lloyd is practically unknown to the younger generation of moviegoers, but oldsters remember him well. He was hilarious back in the silent and early years of the talkies. One of the great comedians who rated equally with Charlie Chaplin, Harry Langdon and sobersides Buster Keaton.

His new and expertly produced "Harold Lloyd's World of Comedy" is just as funny, just as side-splittingly ridiculous as when the original comedies were made.

In a way, the series of suspense-filled hilarious sequences from eight of his most spectacular successes is better than the originals because they represent only the best scenes of his career. They are deftly strung together with narration and against a background of music to make an excellent two hours of sheer entertainment.

The movie shows Lloyd's inherent sense of comedy craftsmanship and his unique ability to humanize any situation and make even the most unlikely happening completely believable.

Older moviegoers will remember his famous scenes when he dangles from the hands of a huge clock in "Safety Last" when he clammers and hangs dangerously on the side of the skyscraper and teeters along the edge of the high roof in "Feet First."

Those moviegoers who missed the originals because of their youth will have the chance to giggle and guffaw over his antics. They'll be able to see what made the bespectacled comedian one of the greats of his day. They'll also laugh heartily because the passing decades haven't dated his skill.

The sequences are all comedy classics, showing Lloyd at his best in pure slapstick, satire, the surprise gag at which he was a master and sheer suspense in a comic situation. Covering the period of his 1923 to 1938 movies, the sequences are from the films "Movie Crazy," "Why Worry," "Hot Water," "Girl Shy," "The Freshman," "Safety Last" and "Feet First," and "Professor Beware."

Donelson at Scout Meeting For Executives

Local Council Boy Scout Executives from Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois attended a regional meeting of "Top Hands," North Aurora, Ill. Attending from the Valley Council was Scout Executive Dwight Donelson.

The conference highlighted developments in Scouting.

Donelson assisted in an evaluation of the recent Scout exchange with Great Britain.

A feature of the conference was plans for a nationwide "Go Roundup" of new cub scouts and explorers during the fall. The Valley Council membership has been on the increase. Donelson participated in a seminar on membership management to share successful practices with other scout executives of the region.

Renk Predicts Victory in GOP Primary

Governor Candidate In Fox Valley on Whirlwind Tour

Wilbur Renk made a whirlwind tour of the Fox River Valley today and predicted victory in the Sept. 11 primary. Renk is running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination against Philip Kuehn who was endorsed by the state Republican organization.

Renk began his day at 5 a.m. today, shaking hands at plant gates in Milwaukee. He flew to Appleton this morning and will visit Oshkosh and Fond du Lac before returning to Milwaukee tonight.

The Sun Prairie farmer and businessman looks for 250,000 votes in the primary and predicts a total of 700,000 votes cast for both parties.

Needs New Image

"I'm certain I'll get organizational support after the primary. I won't get the support of the Birchers but I don't want it anyway," he said.

Renk hammered away at the theme that the Republican party needs a new image.

"Let's face it — the image is determined by the candidates. And in the last two elections our candidates haven't fared too well," he said.

Green Bay Friday

Twenty-hour days are common for the candidate. He admits the campaign is telling on him.

Friday Renk plans to shake hands at plant gates in Milwaukee and then fly to Green Bay, Manitowish and Sheboygan. Campaign costs will run from $50,000 to $65,000, he said.

"Our opposition (Kuehn) is spending twice that amount," Renk claimed.

After a press conference at the Conway Hotel today, Renk shook hands on College Avenue before going to Oshkosh.

$400 Damage Set In Roof Fire

KAUKAUNA — Cool weather Wednesday led to two fire runs by the Kaukauna department one resulting in about $400 damage according to an estimate by the fire chief.

Firemen extinguished a roof fire at the Thomas Eiting residence, 425 Whitney St., about 11 a.m. A spark from the chimney ignited wood shingles and firemen were compelled to remove several shingles to get at the fire. Some rafters were charred and insulation was damaged by water, according to the chief.

Firemen were called about 9:15 a.m. to stand by while excess oil burned from a flooded burner at the Carlton Schmidt residence, 1430 Hillcrest Drive.

at an estimated cost of $1,050, exclusive of labor.

Library Returns to Fall Times

The Appleton Public Library has returned to its regular schedule, including Friday evening hours in the children's room beginning this week.

Hours for the adult department are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The children's room is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Friday is the only evening the department is open, and books from this department will not be checked out on any other evening.

A new automatic charge machine has been added in the children's department. New cards will be issued free of charge to all children who are now registered, beginning Friday. These cards must be presented when checking out books.

Hobby Club Contest Winners Announced

Three Fox Cities area youngsters are winners of puppets for the neatest and most original entries in the Aug. 22 Young Hobby Club contest.

They are Michael Anderson, 14, 1722 S. Oneida St., Appleton, Judy Gavrey, 12, route 1, Kaukauna and Donald Tamazevic, 11, 204 Fillmore St., Kaukauna.

Columnist Cappy Dick will send the prizes by mail to these area winners.

2.2 Million Gallon Tank Recommended On Lindbergh Street

The Appleton Water Commission again has recommended that the Common Council authorize construction of a 2.2 million-gallon water tank on W. Lindbergh Street.

In a letter to the council, the commission reminded that consulting engineers recommended in a 1959 report to have the standpipe constructed during 1961.

"However, due to the priority of various other construction work it had to be postponed until now," the commission wrote.

Had Complaints

Erection of the tank is necessary to bolster the pressures and provide a more adequate supply of water for the city's northwest area. During the summer months the water department has had many complaints about lack of adequate pressure.

Cost of the proposed tank, according to Water Supt. William U. Gallaher, should range between $135,000 and $150,000.

The water commission is seeking authority to proceed with the plans and specifications so the tank can be erected and put into operation during the summer of 1962.

In addition to council action, it will be necessary for the water commission to secure approval of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission and the State Board of Health before construction can be started.

OK Changes In Contracts Education Board Hires 7 Teachers For School Year

The Appleton Board of Education has approved increasing the contract of one kindergarten teacher from half-time to full-time and the hiring of one additional teacher for Madison Junior High School.

Additional half-time kindergarten teacher to handle enlarged enrollment. The additional half-time teacher will teach at either Badger or Twin Willow School. The board also approved seven new contracts for the 1962-1963 school year. They are for Philip J. Gurlik Sr., an instrumental music instructor; Mrs. Sylvia Schwenk, an English teacher; Mrs. Harriet McDowell, a librarian for Madison Junior High School; Miss Sandra A. Gilling, a vocal music teacher, and three elementary teachers, Mrs. Judith Kandler, Mrs. Dorothy Pomplun and Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lueck. Resignations were received from Mrs. Pearl DeGroot, who will teach at Plamann School, and Mrs. Sylvia Schwenk, an instrumental music teacher at Appleton High School, who will go into college teaching. A one-year leave of absence on his master's degree.

Wholesale Food Prices Advance NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale food prices hit a 17-month high this week and scored the biggest year to year rise in any week since March 1961, Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., said Wednesday. It listed the index at 96.11, the highest since February of 1961, and a 2.5 per cent jump from the $5.96 of the same time last year. That rise contracts with what have usually been decreases of a year to year basis. The index, reflecting the total price of one pound each of 31 foods in general use, was $5.91 last week.

Garment Industry Going Corporate

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The bankruptcy last month of Grayson-Robinson, the 212 store retail chain with $102 million of sales has helped reinforce the hackneyed notion of the U. S. ladies' apparel industry as consisting of thousands of family type, father-son businesses operating on a modicum of capital and enormously susceptible not only to the whims of fashion but also even to modest economic blows.

For it is a fact that thousands of small apparel manufacturers are among Grayson-Robinson's creditors. If the chain can not find ways to pay off its debts, many of these will be badly, perhaps mortally hurt by this latest bankruptcy to hit the garment industry in its history.

Yet, even as this concept of the $14.9 billion a year women's and children's garment industry is reinforced, a revolution is quietly occurring within it which signals dramatic changes ahead.

Companies Merging
Multi-million dollar corporate enterprises are emerging. "Right now there are about four companies doing about $200 million of the business and 10,000 others doing the rest," says Lewis B. Cullman, head of an investment management firm bearing his name and an expert on the garment industry.

"I think the 10,000 are going to dwindle and you're going to get a 'General Motors' in this industry."

Mergers are taking place at an accelerating pace. While at its 31st annual convention in May, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union's Executive Board declared the industry "continues to remain the mainstay of small business operations," the ILGWU also emphasized the upsurge in mergers with larger producers acquiring smaller firms to expand and diversify their output, to cut down costs of designing, selling and other non-production activities, to "rationalize their inventory and sales policies."

65 Publicly-Held
Simultaneously, more apparel firms than ever before now have stocks traded either on a recognized exchange or over-the-counter. In February, there were 65 publicly-held corporations in the industry, of which 35 had sold shares in 1960 and 1961 alone.

In development today are individual corporations which will have sales of $100 million or more a year, will be able to write off without trouble losses resulting from a major customer's collapse. Back in 1956, David Schwartz, chairman-president of Jonathan Logan, one of the world's largest manufacturers of women's apparel said "I won't live to see it but there'll be companies in this business doing $100 million in another 20 years."

Schwartz underestimated his own company. JOL's sales in 1962 are estimated at $75-$80 million, could, predicts Cullman, easily hit $100 million by 1964.

Styling Important
Of course, styling always will play a key part in making or breaking an apparel manufacturer and since no company can have a monopoly on styling, it's likely there always will be a large number of small enterprises in the garment field. But the forces pulling the industry toward bigness are powerful and will continue so.

Big companies selling as many as 12,000 retail outlets can afford large scale promotion and advertising campaigns and can employ big sales forces—a whole new idea in an industry where buyers traditionally have had to come to the sellers because there has been no alternative.

Big companies could market the entire output of a chemical company or fabricator in a particular fabric or fiber, getting the extra benefit of the fabricator's advertising and promotion effort.

Use of Computers
Big companies can use and increasingly are using advanced computers to control styling, inventory and deliveries — thus getting the jump on smaller competitors and winning the all-important business from large department stores through the country.

Big companies can minimize the styling hazard by offering something for every type of taste and can afford to employ the best in designing talent.

Finally, big companies are in a superior position to keep getting bigger through their own financial strength and through merger.

There long have been "Fords" in the fashion business — lingo for the widely copied success dresses of the year which you see on almost every other girl. A "General Motors" of garments some day too is not nearly as far-fetched as you might think.

No Increase in Insurance Cost For Appleton

City Employees' Medical Plan to Stay at Same Rate

Appleton's city employees are a healthy and safety conscious breed. This was indicated Tuesday at a meeting of the Board of Public Works with disclosure that health and accident insurance rates would maintain a status quo for the coming year.

Upon hearing the good news — no rate increases — the board recommended to the Common Council that it renew its contract with the Wisconsin Physicians Service.

The insurance rates for city employees have been the same for two consecutive years. Before 1960 rates were $4.12 for a single employee and $11.80 per family. In a letter to the board, James R. Iling, a representative of the insurance service, pointed out that for each year groups of over 100 persons were analyzed in order to determine what the rates should be for the ensuing year.

"A recent study of the city of Appleton reveals that within the tolerances prescribed by our merit rating plan for groups of this size," Iling said.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell and other board members were elated that insurance rates were "holding their own".

"It shows that we have good, healthy people working for the city and our safety program is paying off," Mitchell said. He indicated Appleton employees were not losing as much time due to accidents as in some other cities.

Broehm also noted that the group life insurance rates for city employees dropped this year under Equitable Life Assurance Society coverage.

City Asked to Install Mains At School Site

The Appleton Board of Education will request the common council to expedite installation of sewers and water mains to the Johnston School site in order to hold down costs of providing water for construction of the school.

The architect's specifications for the school provided that the general contractor must furnish water to the site until Sept. 1.

Due to recent staff additions, but will be reimbursed for furnishing it after that date if water is not supplied by the city, one course each semester as previously was done.

New additions to the faculty include Michael Zakar, art; David Price and Douglas Wight, both of whom the board request the council to expedite the installation.

The charge by the general contractor for transporting water to the site will be $8 an hour before freezing weather and $16 an hour after freezing, he said, so the cost can conservatively be estimated at $50 a day.

Some Sections of State Haven't Had 90 Degree Temperatures This Year

MADISON (AP)—Ninety degree temperatures still haven't been recorded in some sections of Wisconsin this summer, a weather summary issued by Marvin W. Burley, state climatologist, disclosed Wednesday.

Burley noted that Wisconsin's August was a generally sunny, cool and dry month. Temperatures remained below normal in all but the southern sections, and lows in the 30s were reported by most weather stations in the northern half of the state.

450 Expected At Extension for First Semester

Registration Days Set for Students at Fox Valley Center

The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center will open its doors for classes Sept. 17 with a minimum of 450 students, about 50 above 1961, director Verne Imhoff says.

Registration for sophomores will be Sept. 10, for Freshmen, Sept. 11, and for those carrying less than a full load, Sept. 13. The registrar's office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. on

Students will have the opportunity to choose from four new courses at the center: a survey of art, basic drawing, French literature and history and appreciation of music.

Due to recent staff additions, zoology and botany will be offered both semesters, instead of one course each semester as previously was done.

New additions to the faculty include Michael Zakar, art; David Price and Douglas Wight, both of whom the board request the council to expedite the installation.

The charge by the general contractor for transporting water to the site will be $8 an hour before freezing weather and $16 an hour after freezing, he said, so the cost can conservatively be estimated at $50 a day.

An evening class in French literature also is available for those who have had a year of college French.

The man who cut down the tree now retired, was a tree surgeon in that gave Elm Tree Bakeries its name was in Appleton Tuesday Co., then located on E. College to see how the baking firm had Avenue, was ordered to remove progressed in 26 years, the old tree which stood in front J. H. Taylor, 78, Green Bay, of its plant.

Thursday, Sept. 6, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent C12

The tree, the last one in the commercial area of College Avenue, was in the way and a nuisance, according to police order.

Taylor Hired

Taylor, who worked for himself with a truck that proclaimed on its side that "Taylor Trims Trees," was hired because he was the only one in the Fox Cities area who could do the job.

It took Taylor and three men two days to saw the tree down to street level, dig out what was left below ground and haul it away.

"And this was in the time before power saws," he said.

The tree, a spreading elm which has been pictured down through the years in the company's emblem, was about 100 years old when cut down, Taylor remembered.

Worked in Valley

Taylor, born in Green Bay, worked out of that city through out the whole Fox River valley for 15 years as an independent tree surgeon. He told many stories about his work for people in the Appleton area.

Taylor and his wife were given a tour of Elm Tree Bakeries by plant officials. The company's history dates back to a one-man operation in 1880 to a firm that now employs about 275 people.

Thilmany Mill to Stay Open Despite Effect of Strike

Plant Operations Slowed as Railroad Shutdown Continues

Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, the mill most seriously affected by the telegraphers strike which has closed down the Chicago North Western Railway, will remain open, company officials said at noon today.

"Thilmany is getting along better than expected although the effect of the strike is still considered extremely serious. We have been able to work out alternate means of transportation and storage that have permitted us to continue in operation and take care of customer requirements," said Charles L. Dostal, Thilmany president.

Appleton Will Pay to Move Utility Poles

Power Firm Now Has Easements After 3-Year Controversy

After several years of deliberation, the Appleton Council decided Wednesday night to pick up the $8,000 tab for having the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. move utility poles on W. Lindbergh Street.

After three years, the power company has acquired easements on the areas to which the poles will be moved.

The pole-moving controversy over who should pay the relocation cost came to a head when aldermen met as a committee of the whole.

In 1959 an opinion was rendered by former City Atty. Don L. Jury that the city would be responsible for moving the 16 utility poles. At that time a representative of the power company said the project would cost $6,000.

Approved 11-3

City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich told the council it would be proper for the power company to remove the poles and then bill the city for the work. Aldermen indicated they would include the money in the 1963 budget.

The poles are on Lindbergh Street between North Richmond and North Mason streets. Approval of the project was by an 11 to 3 vote.

In other action, the council amended the official city map to provide for the extension of Lindbergh Street from Summit Street west to Mason Street. No one opposed the proposal at the public hearing.

Clean AAL Lot

The council also noted that since the Aid Association of Lutherans has offered its parking facilities for the farmers' market, the Street and Sanitation Departments should clean and sweep the area after each event.

The City Engineering Department was instructed to survey the property at the Appleton Water Works Inver at West Washington and North Walnut streets to determine if a new water main is needed.

Record Hop Set At Youth Center

KAUKAUNA — The first special event of the new season at the Youth Center will be held Friday when a "dress-up" record hop will be sponsored by the youth center board and the student council of Kaukauna High School.

A get acquainted party was held earlier this week. The center is beginning its eighteenth year of operation and membership is open to all youngsters of high school age. The center is open various nights during the week and special events are planned throughout the year.

Serving as directors are Francis DeBruin and Fred Barabeau, instructors at Kaukauna High School.

Councilmen Have Lively Debate

Appleton Ordinance in Works to Control Labels on Store Goods

Following lively debate, the Appleton council Wednesday night gave first blessing to a proposed ordinance tightening the control over weights and measures declaration of the quantity.

The ordinance was shown on package labels in Appleton stores. The ordinance was ordered published and it will be read two more times before the council.

Roger LaBerge, sealer of weights and measures, is pressing for the ordinance which he said was modeled after a state statute. LaBerge contended that tighter controls are needed to "protect the consumer from being misled on the quantity of the product contained in the box, carton or package."

Word Usage

Strong opposition was voiced by Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings over a section of the ordinance which she contended would make it "impractical and unenforceable." The section would prohibit use of such words as jumbo, giant and advertising," Mrs. Stillings contended.

Dostal added that operations had slowed down, but the firm would continue operations. About 1,600 are employed.

Layoffs and material shortages plagued Wisconsin industry today as the state's economy began to feel the impact of the eight-day-old shutdown of the Chicago & North Western Railway due to the strike of telegraphers.

The Mirro Aluminum Co. of Manitowoc and Two Rivers found it necessary to lay off several hundred employees, and two other companies employing 2,600 of the state's 42,671 paper industry workers expressed deep concern over the major economic crisis that seems imminent unless the strike is settled soon.

In Peshigo, Badger Paper Mills said it is short of critical raw materials. President Walter

Valley Paper Mills On TV Newscast for Huntley-Brinkley

Two Fox River Valley paper mills will star in the news on the Huntley-Brinkley Report over TV in connection with the current North Western Railway strike.

Movies taken at Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, and Fort Howard Paper Co., Green Bay, at 6:30 a.m. today were flown to New York. They are scheduled for a 5:45 p.m. showing on Channel 5 today or later in the week if not processed in time for today's show.

Al Trembl and Richard Nier of WFRV-TV took the pictures at the request of the NBC newscasters to show how the railroad strike is affecting the paper industries in the valley.

Adrian said the needed materials cannot be safely or economically shipped by truck.

No industries in the Fox Cities area have announced plans to close because of the strike. Several industries indicate that their plants are in trouble and that a future closing is possible, but no plans have been made final.

Others Hit

Also seriously hit by the strike are Combined Locks Paper Co., the Kimberly-Clark Corp. mill at Kimberly and Appleton Coated Paper Co.

Borden's at New London which had earlier indicated that it would have to lay off 30 workers from its tin can shop said today that workers would not be laid off. Arrangements are being made to ship the tin cans by truck.

CHICAGO (AP) — More talks with a federal mediator were scheduled today in the strike of the Chicago and North Western Railway, with little indication of progress in resolving the stalemate.

The mediator, Francis A. O'Neill Jr. of the Federal Mediation Board, met separately Wednesday with negotiators for the striking union—the Order of Railroad Telegraphers — and the North Western.

Afterward, he met with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to give a progress report. Daley was involved with Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg in last-ditch efforts to prevent the strike, which started last Thursday.

O'Neill scheduled a meeting today with rail negotiators and said.

North Central Sets Record For August

North Central Airlines announced today that it carried 112,970 passengers during August, setting a new monthly record for the nation's 13 regional airlines. The Minneapolis St. Paul-based carrier also set a new daily mark on Aug. 31, boarding 4,511 passengers.

"The new daily boarding record tops the previous high of 4,285, also made by North Central on June 16, 1961," said Hal N. Carr, airline president.

Carr said the 112,970 passengers explained by North Central last month is more than the total of all passengers boarded during the first three years of its operation, 1948 through 1950. He credited the growth to increased scheduling and the addition of more 44-passenger Convair aircraft to the fleet. The airline operates 13 Conquairs and 30 DC-3's.

Council Approves Works Nominees

Appointments Contested but Okayed by 11 to 8 Ballot

The common council approved a move is underway not to hire the best men for the city," Groh declared. He strongly defended the recommendations.

Also defending the proposed appointments was Ald. Kenneth J. Loos, who explained that tests were given applicants through an arrangement with the vocational school. He said the testing was handled the way it was to "take politics out of the jobs".

Duszynski told the council the best qualified men had been selected for the positions, saying: "The results of the tests were

Ordinance Would Ban Basement, Garage Houses

The building of garage houses and basement houses would be taboo in the future, according to a proposed ordinance given initial consideration by the common council Wednesday night.

After discussion by aldermen and a plea for the need of such an ordinance by Building Inspector Walter Bogan, the council voted to have it published for the first time and will hold hearings.

No Basement

If passed, it would mean no garage or basement with just a floor covering overhead and remainder of the building not completed could be occupied.

Bogan explained that during World War II when building materials were scarce, garage houses were erected in Appleton. He reported there are "about two or three" so-called oasement houses in existence here.

A few aldermen objected to the proposed ordinance, contending it would create a hardship on economy-minded residents.

5-Year-Old Boy Burned Trailer

Appleton police and Fire Marshal Earl Schwabe reported today that a 5-year-old boy has told them he set a fire in a house trailer sometime Tuesday night.

Larry Faust, 1521 N. Superior St., reported to police Tuesday that a bedspread, blanket and mattress in a house trailer located in a backyard at 1314 N. Harriman St. burned. A book of matches was found near a small hole in the house trailer and three burned matches were found nearby.

The youth was questioned by police after he was reported to have been in the trailer area before the fire was discovered. He told police he started the fire because "he didn't want trailers parked there."

Police Told to Teach Use of Walk Signals

Patrolmen Will Remind Pedestrians Of Proper Times to Cross Streets

Appleton patrolmen in the downtown areas have been told by Chief E. O. Wolff to begin educating pedestrians in the proper use of walk signals at intersections.

Wolff told the patrolmen Thursday in an information bulletin that "up to the present time very little has been done by the police in educating the pedestrian and motorist toward the proper use of these signals."

In a statement today, Wolff said the patrolmen will remind the pedestrians of the proper times to cross at the corners "for four or five months." However, after that time, traffic tickets will be issued for violators crossing against the walk signals.

One Policeman

During the early stages of the education program, one patrolman will be on duty in the downtown area who will be responsible for the 13 pedestrian crossings. Wolff said he did not intend to place any more than one policeman in the downtown section.

Department of Finance Would be Set Up With City Clerk Being Appointed

BY REINY WESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A wholesale overhauling of Appleton's financial administration structure is being proposed by the Public Expenditures Survey of Wisconsin.

The city should establish a department of finance, appoint a director of finance and make the position of city clerk appointive rather than elective. Those two appointive positions should replace the present elective offices of clerk, treasurer and assessor, the state expenditures group says.

Centralized accounting for all branches of city government is recommended to coordinate the present "diffused" system of bookkeeping. This would include the board of education, park board, library board, water commission and board of vocational and adult education.

Central Buying

Centralized purchasing, also, is proposed to realize the savings that result from buying in large quantities.

The public expenditures survey made the study of the city's finances at the request of the Appleton Taxpayers Association.

The taxpayers group received council permission to have the study made after Ald. George Buckley submitted a resolution requesting a full-time director of finance, and after the finance committee asked for a complete study of the proposal.

The expenditure survey group points out that its recommendations are in no way a criticism of the persons who handle the city's finances.

Propose Changes

Changes are proposed as a means of "establishing a perpetually sound foundation for financial administration in the city of Appleton, a growing community."

The changes recommended should produce this result, particularly over the long term if a department of finance is created," the report says.

A charter ordinance is proposed establishing the appointive offices of director of finance and city clerk, to be effective in May 1964 when the terms of the present clerk, treasurer and assessor expire.

The office of director of finance should be established as of Jan. 1, 1963, with the understanding that the person appointed would assume direction of an integrated department of finance in 1964, the report says.

The director would be named by the council on the basis of his educational background and professional experience qualifications.

Two alternate plans are listed in the expenditure survey report. One plan proposes a charter ordinance making the city clerk and director of finance a combined, appointive post effective in May, 1964. Every two years the council should re-evaluate the proposal to establish separate positions by charter ordinance. Centralized accounting and purchasing should be instituted immediately.

The second plan is the same as the first, except that the present elective office of clerk-comptroller would be changed to an elective office of city clerk and an appointive office of director of finance.

(City Clerk Elden Broehm has backed the proposal to separate

The institute will conclude with a banquet and presentation of certificates Oct. 9.

Driver Killed as Car Hits Culvert

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The death of a 22-year-old West De Pere man in a one-car crash about 1 a.m. today brought the Brown County highway death toll to 19 for the year.

John J. Hirn, route 2, West De Pere, was killed when his foreign car left the road and struck a bridge culvert on a town road. A passerby reported the accident to the sheriff's traffic department, but Hirn was dead when officers arrived at the scene. The car was not equipped with seat belts.

According to police, Hirn's car swerved to the left hand side of the road, struck the shoulder, and veered to the right striking the bridge. There were no skid marks to indicate Hirn tried to halt his vehicle.

Youth Suffers Cut Head in Accident

KAUKAUNA — Roger Leick, 19, 416 Plank Road, a passenger in a car driven by Jerome A. Vanden-Heuvel, 19, 1601 Crooks Ave., Kaukauna, suffered a cut on the back of his head when the car in which he was riding was struck by a car driven by William M. Daul, 20, route 1, Kaukauna, about 7:25 a.m. Wednesday.

According to police, Vanden-Heuvel backed from the driveway at 416 Plank Road into the path of the Daul vehicle. Leick was treated by the family physician and released.

Kaukauna Men Fined

KAUKAUNA — Two 22-year-old Kaukauna men signed stipulations of guilt to charges of disorderly conduct and posted bonds of $14.75 at the police station Tuesday.

The pair were arrested by police after investigation into misbehavior on the part of the police. Fined were James Kerscher, 130 W. Fourteenth St., and Thomas Rahdeau, 906 Roosevelt St. A pedestrian from crossing in the middle of the block "because were involved in moving heavy there is as yet, no city regulation machinery being used for construction work."

Winnebago to Revamp Study Operation of Area Sheriff Offices

OSHKOSH — Sheriff depart- ment operations in Outagamie County will be studied by the Winnebago County Sheriff's and Coroner's Commit- tee to gain information for re- vamping of the Winnebago De- partment. Two members of the commit- tee plan to spend a day at each of the departments to find out how they are run. Information also has been gathered on Racine County. The Winnebago sheriff's depart- ment operation will have to be changed effective Jan. 1 when the sheriff is taken off the fee system. Under the present setup the undersheriff is paid out of fees the sheriff receives. Starting Jan. 1 those fees will go directly to the county. The committee also will in- vestigate possible changes in the system for patrol scheduling and salaries. On the motion of Rus- sell Carpenter, an industrial en-

Ask More Study Of Parking Ban On Forest Avenue

NEENAH — Another look at the parking ban on the south side of E. Forest Avenue will be made by the public protection com- mittee at the request of Ald. Aaron Dix. Dix said he had re- ceived numerous protests about the ban on parking on the south side of that street and had a peti- tion signed by 42 of the 45 prop- erties involved. Parking now is banned from First to Ninth Streets. The residents on that side be- lieve that a hearing should have been held, Dix said. He asked if parking could be banned for cer- tain hours and allowed at other times. Ald. Peter Fara, public protec- tion committee chairman, said the ban was recommended by the police department and had been discussed many times prior to its passage. The committee met with a number of the property owners and the police who demon- strated that two cars could not pass if cars were parked on both sides of the street. Dix also asked consideration be given to a "Yield-to-Right-of-Way" sign for the corner of Fifth and Hewitt Streets.

Lawyers Organize To Back Attorney General Candidate

MENASHA — A Neenah-Men- sha "Lawyers for Marotz" com- mittee has been formed, accord- ing to William R. Giese, Men- sha attorney. The officers of the committee are Giese, chairman; Edmund P. Arpin, vice chairman; Daniel R. Robert G. Marnol, Goggin, secre- tary, and Gerald L. Engeldinger, treasurer. Purpose of the committee, Giese noted, is to give support to Robert G. Marotz, Republican candidate for the post of Wiscon- sin attorney general. Marotz, a native of Shawano, represented Shawano County in the Wisconsin Assembly for 10 years — serving successively as assistant Republican floor leader, floor leader and speaker of the Assembly. In addition, Marotz served as chairman and secretary of the Legislative Council, and for a period of six years served con- tinuously on the committee revis- ing and redrafting the corpora- tion code and the criminal code for Wisconsin.

Council Authorizes $10,000 for Sewer Correction Work

NEENAH — Purchase of two trucks and a vacuum suction ma- chine at a total cost of $39,692 plus $10,000 to cover sewer cor- rection work discovered in a tele- vision inspection of the sewers was authorized by the Common Council Wednesday night. One of the trucks will be pur- chased from Oshkosh Motor Trucks, Inc., for use in snow re- moval and plowing. Its cost is $10,909. The other truck will be an International purchased from Baur Truck and Equipment Co. for $8,793. The vacuum suction equipment will be a Vac-All which costs $12, 900. This can be used for leaf re- moval, street cleaning and sewer cleaning and will be mounted on the International truck. Delivery in 45 days has been promised so that it may be used for the ma- jor leaf removal work.

To complete financing the pur- chases, the Council transferred $19,426 from its unappropriated surplus funds account. In a 4 to 4 vote the Council rejected the claim of Harry Ab- endroth for damage to his prop- erty in the S. Commercial Street construction project. A new grade established set the sidewalk higher than Abendroth's lawn. The claim was for $339 to take care of the landscaping needed to re- store the property to proper grade. Ald. Don Kuehnemann advised the Council he would move for reconsideration of this action at the Sept. 19 meeting. Others who voted for approval were Harold Young, Carl Coenen, and Aaron Dix. Youth Fined $75 on Disorderly Conduct, Fireworks Charges

NEENAH — Jerald F. Sell, 19, 648 Congress St., was fined $5 and costs for disorderly conduct and $25 for shooting fireworks by County Judge James V. Sitter after he pleaded guilty of both charges Tuesday afternoon. Michael Peterson, 19, 231 E. Wisconsin Ave., entered innocent pleas to both charges and his trial was set for Sept. 28. He was freed on $150 bond. The two youths were arrested at 1:16 a.m. Monday on N. Com- mercial Street.

Powers Granted by State Council Acts to Get Urban Renewal Funds

OSHKOSH — Another step to- ward obtaining federal urban re- newal funds was completed by the common council Wednesday be- lieved the state college would purchase most of the area for expansion. Application for the renewal funds is the next step, City Atty. Fintan Flanagan said. The council also approved the resolution creating Red Arrow Memorial Park on the 32-acre tract of land on Sawyer Creek which also will be the site for a future junior high school. The proposed area for redevel- opment runs from the Fox River and goes northeast along Rock- well Avenue to Algoma Boulevard southeast to Osceola Street, southwest to High Avenue, north- west to Blackhawk Street and then along Blackhawk to the riv- er. If the renewal program is ap- proved, people living in that area

Financial Overhaul Topsy Driver Urged for Appleton Fined $50

Winneconne Man Arrested by State Patrol on U. S. 41

OSHKOSH — Peter Niemuth, 21, Winneconne, changed a plea of innocent to no contest on a charge of drunken driving Wednesday morning and was fined $50 and costs by Winnebago County Branch 3 Judge James V. Sitter. His driver's license was revoked for one year.

Niemuth was arrested June 8 by the state patrol on U.S. 41, north of State 44 after he was observed driving erratically. He tested .18 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Backs Integration

The report strongly urges immediate integration of all accounting for city offices, board of education, board of vocational and adult education, library board and park board.

Water department accounting would have to remain separate temporarily, the report says.

The department is physically separated from all city offices and has a substantial investment in its accounting and billing machinery. That machinery is not compatible with the type used in city hall, the report states. Also, residents have become accustomed to paying water bills at the water office.

Machines used by the board of education are the same as used in city hall, and easily could be incorporated into the central accounting operation of the department of finance, the report says.

The cost of a department of finance, central accounting and central purchasing would be about the same as it now costs the six units of government to do the job separately, the expenditures survey group estimates. However, the city as a whole would have a more complete and accurate picture of its financial status.

A director of finance would have to be hired. But it is estimated that his salary would not be an additional cost item. In the consolidation process some personnel working for the six governmental units would be released. Others would be incorporated into the new system.

Get Relief

The secretarial help at the vocational school, library and park department, who now act unofficially as financial secretaries also, would be relieved of those duties.

The business administrator in the school system would retain his job within the school organization. He would continue to be the financial adviser to the board of education, and would supervise business affairs, budgeting, purchasing and maintenance of all schools. If the city instituted centralized purchasing, he would be relieved of that type of work.

The expenditures group says that in most instances the monthly reports of the city clerk-comptroller, under the present set-up, meet city and state laws.

However, it states, "In showing the status of anticipated revenues in relation to budgeted appropriations, revenues actually realized would be done in the department of finance, including the work now done by the treasurer and assessor. Department personnel to handle work done by those two offices would be named under the civil service system. They would be chosen on the basis of their knowledge of the functions they would have to perform.

(This deficiency in the city's bookkeeping system was severely criticized on the council floor several months ago. An alderman wanted to know why the comptroller's report showed no property tax receipts after the deadline had passed for paying the first and second installments.

No Report

(City Clerk-Comptroller Broehm said he couldn't show the income because he hadn't received a report from the treasurer. Treasurer Ray Feuerstein said he didn't put money in any accounts until needed, and then reported to Broehm.)

(Both men said that to get a complete picture of the city's finances at a given time it would be necessary to place their individual reports side by side and transfer figures from one to the other.)

The report recommends crediting receipts to individual accounts as funds are received. Idle monies still could be invested, it says.

The department of finance would maintain separate sets of accounts for the independent boards and commissions and the general city funds.

The expenditures survey group says its recommendations are what is considered ideal by the National Municipal League, International City Managers Association and the Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Approve Three New Public Works Men

Circuit Court Judge Andrew Parnell requested briefs today on a court case charging the City of Appleton illegally denied approval of a northside subdivision plat owned by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Menning, 57 Fox Point Drive.

Judge Parnell's decision is expected within 10 days after an examination of the briefs. The common council disapproved the platting of about 10 acres near Northland Avenue (U.S. 41) west of Meade Street in April, after the area had been annexed to the city from the Town of Grand Chute.

Appleton Illegally Denied Subdivision Of Land, Owner Says

City Atty. Fred Froehlich said today he is exploring the possibility that the common council in April failed to legally annex the area in question when only 12 councilmen voted in favor of the merger. Froehlich said the required amount of votes in favor of annexation would be 14 or a two-thirds majority.

At the meeting of the council April 4, the council voted 12 in favor, six opposed and two were absent. Froehlich said the area has already been recorded and he did not know the procedure for bringing the problem before the council.

Sewer Service

Menning has charged the city could not legally deny approval of a plat based on the city's failure to provide sewer service immediately in the area. The council's planning commission said development in the area would aggravate a serious watershed problem which the city would have difficulty solving.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen testified today that the planning commission ruled against platting the area March 29 because it felt the sale of building sites and construction in the area before sewer and storm facilities could be built was against city policy.

The council notified representatives of the Valley Iron Works Corp. that there is no objection to the firm straightening the curve on the north side of Grand Chute Island. The city will agree to whatever the U. S. Corps of Engineers and the Wisconsin Public Service Commission approve. It was stipulated that the consultant for the firm will do all the necessary engineering for the project.

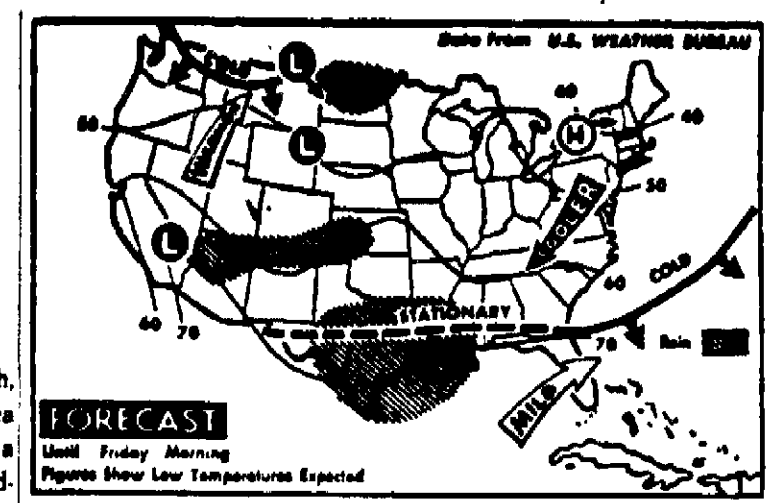

Project 70 Sign

Permission to install a Project 70 sign on the site of the parking ramp was granted the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The local Muscular Dystrophy Association also was granted permission to use the former blood bank quarters in the basement of the city hall.

The council renewed its contract with the Wisconsin Physicians Service, Madison, for furnishing hospital and doctor insurance to subscribing city employees. The city will pay half the premium cost, and the employee the remainder.

The council accepted a petition for direct annexation of two lots in the Town of Buchanan and directed that a public hearing be held. A school site is included in the area to be annexed.

Cooler Weather Is forecast tonight for the east coast from Maine to Northern Georgia and westward to the western Gulf states. Warmer weather is expected in the western Lakes southward through the central Mississippi Valley, in parts of the central and southern Plains and in the northern Rockies. Showers are forecast for the western Gulf region and parts of the southern Plains and southern Plateau. (AP Wirephoto)

It was apparent some animosity existed because the appointments did not go to local residents, including persons presently employed by the city.

Voting Against

Voting against referring the recommended appointments back to committee were Ald. Buckley, Groh, Krueger, Loos, Ogilvie, Raddler, Schneider, Stilling, Stoegebauer, Stumpf and Ziemann. Voting for were Ald. Ahrens, Bogan, Hannemann, Huisman, Mueller, Sonkowsky, Tews and Wagner.

In other action, the council re-elected Peter DeLain to a five-year term on the Water Commission of the commission, defeated Andrew C. Jimos, 2nd Ward supervisor, for the position by a 12 to 7 vote.

The resignation of Duszynski was accepted by the council "with regret" and Mayor Clarence Mitchell announced a testimonial dinner for the outgoing department director will be held Sept. 26.

Hire Women Clerks

The council received a special report from the Public Safety Committee recommending four women be hired to do clerical work in the Police Department and referred the matter to the Personnel Committee.

Police Chief Earl Wolff was authorized to attend a program sponsored by the Northwestern University Traffic Institute to be held at Evanston, Ill., Oct. 25-27.

Permission to attend the engineering and public works section of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities meeting at Green Bay Oct. 16-17 was granted Donald Bengs, assistant department of public works director, and Walter C. Rasmussen, city planner.

The council referred to the Streets and Sanitation Committee a communication from the Fire Chief Hugo Strelow requesting the trash collection ordinance be repealed, and that funds be put in the 1963 public works budget to provide for the necessary trash pickups to eliminate individual trash burning in the city.

he would be in touch with the union by telephone.

After Wednesday's sessions, O'Neill said the prospect for ending the strike is not encouraging. He said he plans to continue daily meetings in his effort to bring the parties into agreement.

Officials of the two other rail unions sat in on O'Neill's session with telegraphers negotiators. They are Michael Fox, president of the AFL-CIO Railway Employees Department, and H.C. Crotty, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees.

But O'Neill said their presence was not significant.

The 1,000 members of the telegraphers union went on strike against the North Western in support of demands that no job in existence Dec. 3, 1957, be eliminated without union approval.

Members of other rail unions observed the telegraphers picket lines, shutting down the railroad. A total of 16,500 workers are idle.

The North Western, the nation's third longest line, operates a 10,600-mile line in nine Midwestern states.

Two Hearings Scheduled for Allan Cain

Bar Association Considers Action Against Attorney

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Hearings on the petition of the state board of bar commissioners for disciplinary action against Allan Cain, former Appleton lawyer, will be held at Appleton and in Sandstone, Minn., later this month.

Elton J. Morrison, retired Columbia County judge who was named by the state Supreme Court as referee in the case, scheduled Sept. 17 for the hearing at Sandstone and Sept. 19 for a further hearing at the Outagamie County courthouse in Appleton.

Asked Action

The state board of bar commissioners asked the state supreme court for action against Cain as a lawyer following his conviction on federal income tax evasion charges in the federal District Court at Milwaukee earlier in the year.

Cain is now serving a prison term at the Sandstone federal penitentiary. Mrs. Cain, also convicted, is serving a sentence at another prison.

Make Recommendations

The board on the basis of Referee Morrison's findings will recommend action to the state Supreme Court judges, who are empowered to suspend, disbar, fine or otherwise to penalize lawyers for infractions of the code of ethics of the bar.

Rudolph Regez of Monroe is counsel for the state board and will prosecute the case on its behalf.

Woman Breaks Back in Fall

A Neenah woman received a broken back after falling in a friend's home in Appleton.

Mrs. Edwin Major, 111 Water St., Neenah, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after falling about 6 p.m. Wednesday.

She was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Sicard, 716 E. Coolidge St., Appleton. Mrs. Sicard said Mrs. Major had fallen off a step leading from the kitchen into the back entryway.

Work to Begin Monday On Budget for Schools

The Appleton Board of Education will begin study of the 1963 school budget at its regular meeting at 7:15 p. m. Monday at Morgan School.

A special budget meeting has been scheduled for Sept. 17. The board also will hear representatives of the Appleton Education Association welfare committee at this meeting.

No. We also are what we are be- beings see a future that they care cause of the future. Concern for about, and that helps to shape the our future prompts us to save present. money, to plan for the education of our children, to take out life insurance. As citizens, we are concerned for what our country will be like, long after we are dead ly. The only trouble is that their concepts and views, however logical, are not true to reality. It is the loss of touch with the world of people and the world of things, not lack of logic, that is often the main difficulty. One symptom of insanity is to act as though other persons did not exist. To help clear up many misconceptions about mental illness, read the booklet, "When Mental Illness Strikes Your Family." Judge Grants Little Chute Man Divorce Tuesday

Paul Herter, 24, 820 Grand St., Little Chute, received a divorce Tuesday from Marilyn Herter, 31, San Diego, Calif., in Circuit Court. Herter charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

The couple was married Nov. 7, 1959, and separated Oct. 15, 1961. They had no children and no alimony or support was ordered. A property settlement was made.

Clifford Johnson, 47, 315 E. Washington St., and Ruth Johnson, 45, 314 E. Ninth St., Kaukauna, were divorced Tuesday in Circuit Court. Mrs. Johnson charged cruel and inhuman treatment and was granted custody of three minor children. Johnson was ordered to pay $45 per week support and a property settlement was made.

The couple was married March 31, 1939, and again on Dec. 31, 1951, after a previous divorce five years earlier. They separated Oct. 6, 1960. Alimony was not ordered.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: To feel bad is to feel ill or depressed, but to feel badly is to have a bad sense of touch.

Often mispronounced: I n a n e. Pronounce in-ain, accent on second syllable.

Often misspelled: Quay (pronounced as "key"). Queue (pronounced as "cue").

Synonyms: Lazy, indolent, inactive, inert, slothful, idle, unoccupied, unemployed, useless.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: irrational: contrary to reason; absurd. "His irrational suggestions were not accepted."

Car Pool

There were three automobiles proceeding, one behind the other, along a highway. If there was a total of 14 persons in the first two cars and 19 persons in the back two cars, and there were as many persons in the middle car as there were in the total of the front and rear cars, how many persons were there altogether in the three cars, and how many were there in each car?

Answer

There were 22 persons altogether in the three cars. There were 3 persons in the first car, 11 persons in the second car, and 8 persons in the rear car.
